Fire Rages in UBC Hall

Centre section of Brock Hall, University of British Columbia student union building, was destroyed by fire last night. Cause was still unknown at press time.

Firemen Flee Crashing Roof

UBC's Brock Hall Ripped by Flames

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four firemen raced to safety across a collapsing roof Monday night while battling a spectacular two-hour fire in Brock Hall, the University of British Columbia's student union building.

The firemen were standing on the east roof of the two-story building when the roof beams began to give way. They abandoned their hoses and reached safety before the roof collapsed.

There was no immediate estimae of damage, but it was believed thousands of dollars worth of equipment stored in the building was ruined.

CENTRE DESTROYED

The centre of the building was destroyed by the fire which originated in a committee room on the second floor. Cause was not immediately determined.

No one was seriously injured, but one fireman was treated after being overcome by smoke.

Hundreds of students assisted campus and metropolitan firemen in fighting the fire, which broke out at 6 p.m.

The blaze was thought to be under control within an hour, but it flared up again at about 7 p.m. and five pieces of equipment from the Vancouver fire department were sent to the aid of the university's two machines.

A number of valuable paintings and musical instruments were stored in the building, used by various student organizations for meetings and dances.

Cabinet Meets Again

Manchester Joins Paralyzed Ports

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill called a special cabinet meeting Monday night to discuss Britain's paralyzing dock strike as the mammoth stoppage gripped an eighth major port.

The cabinet meeting ended with the government still hopeful a strike settlement can be reached without the use of troops to shift stalled cargoes, although developments Monday gave little sign of an early peace.

Despite back-to-work appeals from moderate labor union chiefs, more than 500 dockers walked out in Manchester Monday, keeping the total strike army at more than 43,000.

Meanwhile, strike leaders served notice they intend to spread the strike to Scotland. Dick Barrett, secretary of the National Amalgamated Stevedores' and Dockers' Union, which started the strike, left Monday night for Glasgow to recruit support.

Moderate labor union chiefs were only partly successful Monday in a new drive to get men back to work. They managed to persuade about 1,000 strikers in London, Liverpool and Hull to return, but this total was largely balanced by the Manchester walkout.

The number of vessels affected by the stoppage rose Monday to the peak figure of 341.

Export and import cargoes worth about $350,000,000 are held up in the eight ports now affected, and two-thirds of Britain's seaborne trade is at a standstill.

In addition, 8,000 dock repair workers are striking in London in a separate dispute, tying up another 100 ships.

The three-man government court of inquiry into the strike continued its deliberations in private Monday. It may issue its findings, or an interim report, this week.

Spoils Own Trade

EDMONTON (CP) — Thomas Connelly's wondering whether he's in the right business.

Monday, he grabbed a man about to make a suicide jump from a bridge spanning the North Saskatchewan River here. Last January, he did the same thing at another Edmonton bridge.

Connelly is an undertaker.

New Golf Column Slated for Colonist

Harry Young, who is well known to readers of The Daily Colonist as financial and business editor of this paper, starts another column this week.

"To be called At the 19th," the column will appear each Wednesday.

Harry is not breaking new ground. Before he came to Canada six years ago, he was sports editor of The Evening Citizen in Glasgow.

He gave up the idea of qualifying for a similar job in Canada after watching box lacrosse, Canadian football, baseball and other New World favorites.

"I would have had to start my education all over again," he says.

But golf is the same the whole world over, and Harry Young is well qualified to compile the new column.

He is a charter member of the British Golf Writers' Association, of which Bernard Darwin is president, and from 1930 until the war he covered most of the British championships and leading tournaments.

A regular player himself, Harry plays off a handicap of 13 at the Victoria Golf Club.

Returning After 15 Years

QUEEN MOTHER ELIZABETH

Starting North American Visit

Queen Mother Arrives Today

NEW YORK (CP) — Fifteen eventful years since she first set foot in North America, Queen Mother Elizabeth lands today for a brief but busy visit to the United States and Canada.

This time the visit is considered a private rather than a state affair.

The invitation to visit the U.S. was extended by Columbia University, celebrating the 200th anniversary of the granting of its charter by King George II.

She will receive an honorary degree at a special convocation Sunday.

The Queen Mother will spend nine days in New York and six in and near Washington. She will go to Ottawa November 12, and will return to New York to embark for home November 18.

For the voyage to North America the Queen Mother chose the liner Queen Elizabeth, named after her. It is due to dock in New York at 4.45 p.m. today.

The Queen Mother will be greeted by representatives of President Eisenhower, the mayor of New York and Commonwealth governments represented here.

She will stay in New York at the home of Sir Pierson Dixon, Britain's permanent UN delegatee.

Wednesday morning she will go to Manhattan for a Canadian Club luncheon.

Vice Crusader Montreal Mayor

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Drapeau, 38-year-old vice-busting lawyer, Monday night was elected mayor of Montreal, a cosmopolitan city that gained an international reputation for its gay night life and other forms of entertainment.

Drapeau, whose main campaign promise was to clean up the city, was elected to succeed popular Camillien Houde, retiring because of ill health after serving as mayor for 18 years.

Making his first bid for municipal office, Drapeau took the lead early in the race over eight opponents and moved on to a landslide victory.

VIOLENCE FLARES

In the election, marked by violence and a volley of revolver shots, it appeared that Drapeau would carry into office with him many of the councillor-candidates who ran with him on the Civic Action League ticket.

The league sponsored 34 candidates for 66 council seats being contested. One of the first councillors declared elected was Drapeau's father, Joseph E. Drapeau, in a northeast-end district.

Drapeau claimed victory early on the basis of returns reaching him from his party workers.

The voting was marked by violence punctured by a volley of revolver shots.

The violence resulted in minor injuries to two persons, including a constable who was struck on the head by a telephone torn from a desk in an election committee room. One man, identified only as a wrestler, was arrested for allegedly trying to "rough-up" a candidate.

Vast Project Takes Step

Initial step in the vast hydro-electric and metallurgical development planned by Frobisher-Ventures in B.C.'s northland was made yesterday.

Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers said that the company had filed its application for water rights with the B.C. government water recorder in the Atlin district. All the areas under consideration have been posted.

"Frobisher is proceeding according to plan," Mr. Sommers said.

Northwest Power Industries Ltd., the company incorporated by Frobisher-Ventures for the project, has been already granted a preliminary permit for exploration work in the Yukon basin. The huge project, embodying a $270,000,000 hydro and smelter development, may eventually reach $700,000,000 if carried to its envisioned capacity.

Space Travel Looms

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The United States can have a fully-manned space station circling the earth in 10 to 15 years, if it is willing to go all out on the project, a top U.S. army scientist said here yesterday.

But, he said, "all-out" means to shoot the works as the government did with the development of the atomic bomb.

The scientist, Dr. Wernher von Braun, pioneer expert in German and American guided missiles, discussed the fascinating possibilities of space travel in a press conference which opened to the wailing of the city's air-raid sirens sounding their weekly test.

"It's all a matter of how hard we push it," Von Braun said. "If we have the backing the Manhattan project had, it would be only a matter of a few years."

Once the space station is established as a stepping stone, he asserted, man could land on the moon in 15 to 20 years' time.

DESIGNED V2'S

Dr. von Braun, developer of the U.S. army's new long-range Redstone guided missile, was the designer of the German V2 rockets which battered English cities near the end of the Second World War.

The 42-year-old scientist was technical director of the V2 rocket program at Peenemunde, Germany. When the war was over, Von Braun gathered about 130 leading German rocket experts and fled to the Western zone.

Von Braun said he and his fellow scientists came to America and many of them are on his staff at the Redstone Arsenal, Ala., where he is chief of guided missile development for army ordnance corps.

Asked about the American and Russian scramble for German scientists, the 42-year-old expert said the Russians concentrated on finding production people, "people who knew how to make the V2's — the Russians got the skill but the brains came over to America."

Von Braun explained that there is "hardly any mystery in the development of rockets." He said "any engineer with a bachelor's degree" can follow the development of rocket weapons and can explore space-flight possibilities.

Sweep Prize Will Start Home

Making plans to sink $1,075 into a new home are Mrs. William C. (Lenora) McQuillin, 1175 Oscar Street, and her seven-year-old son John who are looking over a letter notifying Mrs. McQuillin she has drawn an Irish sweep ticket on a horse in the Cambridgeshire tomorrow. But the horse, Cockrullah, will not start; so the city woman has no chance for the top prize of $140,000. (See Page 6.)

Below 3,000,000

Fewer Lack Jobs Says Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Monday night that unemployment has dropped to 2,700,000—the first time it has gone below the 3,000,000 mark this year.

He interrupted the reading of a prepared speech on economic conditions — he called this "the most prosperous peacetime year in history"—to read what he described as the latest government figures on employment.

The jobless total this month, he said, has dropped by 400,000 from 3,100,000 to 2,700,000.

Returning to his prepared manuscript, the president said unemployment in some areas—which has brought Democratic criticism in the congressional campaign—"is a matter of deep concern to all of us."

In a nationwide television-radio address, which the White House had billed as "nonpolitical," the president painted a rosy picture of the general economic situation and predicted better times ahead.

"Certainly," he said, "we now know that one fear—the fear of a paralyzing depression—can be safely laid away.

"In two years, we have again demonstrated that America's prosperity does not necessarily depend on war's sacrifices.

"Without war, our economy is working at near-record levels. More than 62,000,000 people have jobs. The number is increasing steadily."

"Our people have more personal income after taxes than ever before. Our national production surpasses even the war peak of 1944."

Vishinsky Assails West German Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia's Andrei Vishinsky attacked the recent London and Paris agreements on Weste Germany Monday as increasing instead of lessening international tension.

"Can it be suggested that the London and Paris agreements for the restoration of the German Wehrmacht—for the setting up of an army of 500,000 under the command of Hitlerite generals bent on revenge—can be reconciled with the disarmament task over which we are laboring here?"

Vishinsky attacked the agreement near the end of a 2½-hour speech on disarmament in the UN's political committee.

"I say you can't have new pacts which make for aggression while you are supposedly seeking disarmament here."

At the same time, Vishinsky said Russia and the West had come closer together on the disarmament problem.

"The Soviet Union, having for its part taken steps to bring our positions closer together, expects that corresponding steps will be taken by the Western powers."

Early Action

OTTAWA—Increased unemployment-insurance benefits for jobless workers and lower taxes for business and industry may be the federal government's answer to the unemployment problem.

There are indications that changes in the Unemployment Insurance Act, aimed mainly at protecting out-of-work Canadians through the winter months, will be presented to parliament when it sits early in the new year.

And Finance Minister Harris is said to be considering tax reductions for his 1955-56 budget even though these would result in a large deficit.

The tax cuts would be directed toward business and industry, rather than to the individual taxpayer, as a means of encouraging greater economic activity and employment to give the whole country a shot in the arm.

A deficit—Canada's first since 1945-46—is shaping up for the current year. Although the government is concerned, it reportedly feels that if the deficit is less than $100,000,000 it will have no serious impact on the Canadian economy.

SOP UP SURPLUS

In the next budget, defense spending may be cut from its present $2,000,000,000 and the public works department may get more money for an expanded work program which would sop up some of the labor surplus.

For the unemployed, insurance benefits may be stretched in two ways. The minimum period in which unemployed persons may draw benefits may be extended to 20 weeks, to cover the low-employment winter season.

For workers in higher pay brackets, benefit payments may be increased from the present maximum of $24 a week for those with dependents, $17.10 for single men.

Experts now are studying the $880,000,000 unemployment insurance fund to determine whether increased payments will be necessary to cover these increased benefits.

Unknown Slaying Disclosed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A surprise admission by a prisoner in the B.C. penitentiary was reported Monday to have disclosed a murder at Kamloops 10 years ago which RCMP did not know had taken place.

Details of the slaying were closely guarded by police order. The victim was thought at the time to have simply left the district.

Last week a new lead was found by Kamloops RCMP which changed the picture. A sergeant was sent to the penitentiary to interview a man imprisoned on another charge.

Magistrate Halts Two-Year Pursuit

Brunette Chases Bachelor Right into Court

NEW YORK (UP)—A 28-year-old bachelor went to court yesterday to complain that an office secretary has been chasing him for two years. He said her attentions were unwanted.

James Clancy, an accountant, said he got more than he had counted on when he went to the Sembodja Corp., an import-export firm, two years ago to go over their books.

He said Rose Mauro, 22, a secretary at the firm, watched him at work and has been in hot pursuit ever since.

Miss Mauro has telephoned him, followed his car in her own, waved her hand at him, leaned out of the car and called to him, and accosted him on the street, he said.

Clancy said he put up a "determined resistance" to all these advances. He was engaged to another girl, he said, and fortunately she believed his explanation for Miss Mauro's conduct.

When Clancy finished telling his story to Magistrate Thomas J. Gray, Miss Mauro was called to testify.

Gray asked her what she had to say about the charge.

"It won't happen again," she said.

Gray said that was a "negative admission" of guilt and dismissed the court.

Clancy sprinted from the courtroom, but comely brunette Miss Mauro was in no hurry to leave. She said as far as she was concerned the whole thing was over.

Newsmen who raced after Clancy asked him to what he attributed Miss Mauro's persistent interest in him.

"I have no idea," he gasped, and fled.

Big winner of Daily Colonist fishing derby held at Brentwood Sunday was G. E. "All Aboard" Mortimore, whose 7¼-pounder caught on bucktail fly won him a handsome fishing rod. Every angler in the derby took fish and several secured limit catches.

Old Pipe Organ Plays Recital

The oldest pipe organ in British Columbia, built in 1813, was played at a special recital Sunday in the Church of Our Lord, 626 Blanshard Street, to mark the 80th anniversary of the day it was given to the church by Sir James Douglas.

J. Ingram Smith, an employee at City Hall who is organist at the church, said the special service was attended by "the largest crowd we have ever had."

Minister was Rev. Dr. J. G. Brown, and John Bray, Victoria baritone, sang several selections.

The organ was built in Boston, England, in 1813, and was shipped to the United States in 1870, after which it received some repairs.

In 1874, it was shipped out of San Francisco, but the vessel carrying the organ was shipwrecked and Sir James Douglas salvaged the organ, presenting it to the church, which he attended until his death in 1877.

The late Chandas Dix of Vancouver restored and modernized the organ approximately 20 years ago, adding new pipes, but the original pipes were still in use Sunday.

Sailors Buy Bonds

Royal Canadian Navy personnel on the Pacific Coast has subscribed for $459,450 worth of ninth series Canada Savings Bonds, topping last year's final total of $427,000.

More than 600 officers and men of HMCS Magnificent have subscribed for $133,000.

The general payroll deduction picture in B.C. shows 18,845 people have signed for $4,345,450, about one-third of last year's record sales.

Ship Firms Grant Boost In Wages

A five-cent-an-hour wage increase in a two-year contract has been signed by nine Lower Mainland shipbuilding firms and the Shipwrights, Joiners and Caulkers' Union (CCL).

The agreement calls for three cents an hour increase for the first year and two cents an hour for the second. The new scale will range from $1.65 for laborers to $2 an hour for mechanics, as of November 1, 1955.

The union is continuing negotiations with four steel shipyards in Victoria and Vancouver.

Two Cleared Of Charges In $55 Theft

CAMPBELL RIVER — Charges of theft against Edward Beaver and Colin Horton were dismissed in provincial court yesterday by Magistrate R. Haig-Brown for lack of evidence.

The charge involved dissappearance of about $55 from Lourdes Hospital here in late September.

Horton also won dismissal on a charge of breaking and entering a garage September 29.

Leaf-Burners! Try This Test

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

If you are one of those stubborn gardeners who still persist in raking up the fallen leaves and making a bonfire out of them, I suggest that you try the following little experiment:

Dig a trench across a section of your vegetable garden, or across one of the beds out front where you set out bedding plants in the spring. Make the trench as wide as the blade of your shovel, and a good 12 to 14 inches deep. Shovel the "crumb" out of the bottom, then pack it full of fallen tree leaves. Get into the trench and tread them down, adding more leaves as you work, until it is filled to within four inches of the top with compressed leaves.

Give the leaves a heavy sprinkling with fertilizer — almost any kind will serve — using about a cupful to the running yard of trench. Then fill in loosely with soil, and mark the position of the trench carefully with stakes.

If the vegetables or plants you grow on the site of the trench next year aren't bigger, stronger and healthier than those grown elsewhere in the garden, I'll eat my shirt. With garlic sauce. And I hate garlic.

* * *

For several years now my family has been experimenting to secure something a little different for the salad bowl.

Along about this time of the year, we take all our left-over seeds of cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, spinach, and mix them together thoroughly, and sow the mixture in seed flats filled with rich, sandy loam. These germinate and grow very quickly in an unheated greenhouse, cold-frame, or even an enclosed sun porch.

REFRESHING CHANGE

When the seedlings are about two inches high, we cut them off close to the soil with a pair of scissors, wash and drain the greens, and dump them in the salad bowl with a little French dressing. The mixture tastes refreshingly different from the usual lettuce or endive salads. Flavors can be varied by including onion, leek, or radish seed in the mixture, but as onions and leeks are slower in germinating, these seeds should be sown about 10 days ahead of the rest of the greens.

Don't try to get a second crop from the same sowing. It doesn't work.

Extensive Refit Completed, Athabaskan Rejoins Fleet

HMCS Athabaskan rejoined the fleet of the Pacific Command yesterday following a commissioning ceremony at HMC Dockyard.

She has just completed an extensive refit and modernization of armament program to better equip her as an integral part of Canada's anti-submarine navy.

Rear Admiral J. C. Hibbard spoke of the place of the navy in Canada's rapid growth during a short address.

SEA POWER NEEDED

"The navy is not just a necessary evil," he said. "Our livelihood depends on overseas markets and we Canadians must realize the importance of sea power.

"It is vital to Canada and her economy and it is your job," he told the members of the ship's company and a small number of invited guests.

Loyalty, cheerfulness and personal efforts are the important things, the admiral said. "An ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness," he stated.

"I am a sentimental sort of bloke. It always brings quite a lump to my throat any time I see men taking on a new ship," he said.

Lieut.-Cmdr. C. E. Richardson, new commanding officer of the Athabaskan, said: "The thrill of joining a new ship can never be lightly dismissed. We have been given a fine ship with a proud record, second to none.

"New equipment should make her an even more formidable fighting ship than she has been in the past."

Chaplain (P) H. R. Pike, CD, RCN, gave the benediction.

Pension Boost Sought by CCF

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser. Polident, at your drug counter.

Secret of the GOLDFISH BOWL

BY WILLIAM P. McGIVERN

"What's the meaning of this?" he snarled. "Do you incompetent idiots realize you might have signed a girl's death warrant by jerking me in here?"

"Please, Mr. O'Neil," the Commissioner said mildly. "What we did was necessary. This is a military intelligence agent. We have confirmed his credentials. He wants to talk to you without disclosing his identity further."

The small gray-haired man behind the desk coughed gently and glanced up. Geoffery found himself looking into the clearest, most quietly commanding blue eyes he had ever seen.

Mr. O'Neil," the G-2 officer said quietly, "I deeply regret that I have inconvenienced you by having brought you here. However, the matter is so extremely urgent that I considered any means justifiable. I will be as brief as possible. In the past twenty-four hours a goldfish bowl containing, I believe, three ordinary carp has been left in your possession."

"That's right," Geoff snapped. "So?"

"So," the G-2 man said quietly, "it is imperative that I know the present whereabouts of that goldfish bowl. Can you tell me, Mr. O'Neil, where it is? By the way, my name is Winston."

Geoff nodded curtly. "It's in a girl's apartment, twenty minutes from here."

In terse sentences he told the G-2 man of everything he knew, and what his reason had been in leaving the bowl in that apartment.

When he finished the G-2 man was on his feet, his features drawn anxiously. He snapped, "You must phone her. Tell her to leave her apartment immediately."

There was no [illegible] urgency in his voice.

Grim-lipped, Geoff grabbed a phone from the Commissioner's desk.

His hands trembled with relief an instant later as Frances' clear unhurried voice came over the wire.

"Hello?"

"Fran," Geoff said tensely, "there's no time to lose. This is O'Neil. You've got to get out of your apartment."

"But—?"

"Please don't argue, honey. Our plan slipped. Now put the phone down and go down to the lobby or into the street, do you understand? I'll be there as soon as I possibly can."

"All right, if you say so. But there's something I have to tell you about those funny fish of mine. I—"

Her voice broke off suddenly in a strangled, choking sob.

"Don't—"

"Fran!" Geoff yelled. "Fran! What happened?"

He jiggled the receiver frantically, but the line was dead. For an instant he stood beside the desk, too stunned to move.

Winston gripped his arm firmly. "Come," he said, and together they hurried out.

To Be Continued.

Lawn Driver Goes to Jail

A Victoria motorist who drove his car off the road across the lawns and gardens of three Pembroke Street houses, knocked down nine feet of fence and came to rest in front of the third house was sentenced to 14 days in jail when he appeared in police court Saturday.

It was the second driving-while-impaired conviction against Allan W. Dee, 2213 Spring Road, in a year. He was also fined $50 or an additional seven days for driving while his license was under suspension.

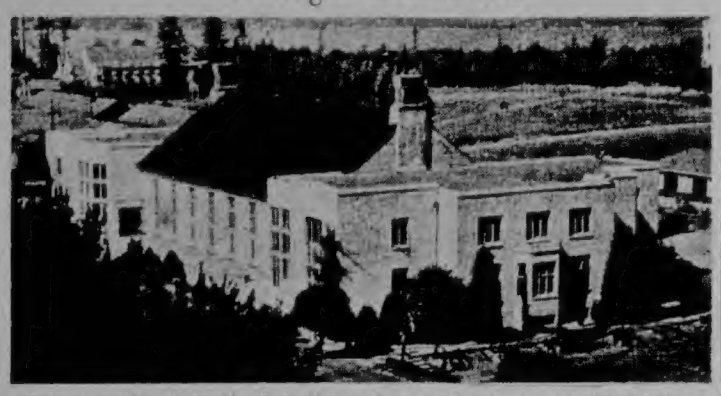
Fire Rages in UBC Hall



Centre section of Brock Hall, University of British Columbia student union building, was destroyed by fire last night. Cause was still unknown at press time.

Spoils Own Trade

EDMONTON (CP) — Thomas Connelly's wondering whether he's in the right business.

Monday, he grabbed a man about to make a suicide jump from a bridge spanning the North Saskatchewan River here. Last January, he did the same thing at another Edmonton bridge.

Connelly is an undertaker.

Montgomery Plans Visit

OTTAWA (CP) — Viscount Montgomery, second in command of Allied forces in Europe, will confer here with Canadian military and government officials next month.

Field Marshal Montgomery will arrive November 10 and remain here until November 12 as guest of Sir Archibald Nye, United Kingdom High Commissioner.

He will leave Ottawa November 12 for Hamilton, where he will stay with friends. On the evening of November 12 he will motor to Toronto to open the Royal Winter Fair. He will fly from Toronto to Washington November 13.

Canada Eyes Role in Pact

OTTAWA (BUP) — Government officials studied the new Paris agreements Monday to determine how large a role Canada would play in the creation of the German defense force.

The new German forces would be eligible to send air cadets to Canada for pilot training and receive Canadian military equipment under the mutual aid program if the aid was approved by the NATO standing group of military officers in Washington.

Firemen Flee Crashing Roof

UBC's Brock Hall Ripped by Flames

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four firemen raced to safety across a collapsing roof Monday night while battling a spectacular two-hour fire in Brock Hall, the University of British Columbia's student union building.

The firemen were standing on the east roof of the two-story building when the roof beams began to give way. They abandoned their hoses and reached safety before the roof collapsed.

There was no immediate estimate of damage, but it was believed thousands of dollars worth of equipment stored in the building was ruined.

CENTRE DESTROYED

The centre of the building was destroyed by the fire which originated in a committee room on the second floor. Cause was not immediately determined.

No one was seriously injured, but one fireman was treated after being overcome by smoke.

Hundreds of students assisted campus and metropolitan firemen in fighting the fire, which broke out at 6 p.m.

The blaze was thought to be under control within an hour, but it flared up again at about 7 p.m. and five pieces of equipment from the Vancouver fire department were sent to the aid of the university's two machines.

A number of valuable paintings and musical instruments were stored in the building, used by various student organizations for meetings and dances.

Fewer Lack Jobs Says Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Monday night that unemployment has dropped to 2,700,000—the first time it has gone below the 3,000,000 mark this year.

He interrupted the reading of a prepared speech on economic conditions — he called this "the most prosperous peacetime year in history"—to read what he described as the latest government figures on employment.

The jobless total this month, he said, has dropped by 400,000 from 3,100,000 to 2,700,000.

Returning to his prepared manuscript, the president said unemployment in some areas—which has brought Democratic criticism in the congressional campaign—"is a matter of deep concern to all of us."

In a nationwide television-radio address, which the White House had billed as "non-political," the president painted a rosy picture of the general economic situation and predicted better times ahead.

"Certainly," he said, "we now know that one fear—the fear of a paralyzing depression—can be safely laid away.

"In two years, we have again demonstrated that America's prosperity does not necessarily depend on war's sacrifices.

"Without war, our economy is working at near-record levels. More than 62,000,000 people have jobs. The number is increasing steadily."

"Our people have more personal income after taxes than ever before. Our national production surpasses even the war peak of 1944."

Space Travel Looms

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The United States can have a fully-manned space station circling the earth in 10 to 15 years, if it is willing to go all out on the project, a top U.S. army scientist said here yesterday.

But, he said, "all-out" means to shoot the works as the government did with the development of the atomic bomb.

The scientist, Dr. Wernher von Braun, pioneer expert in German and American guided missiles, discussed the fascinating possibilities of space travel in a press conference which opened to the wailing of the city's air-raid sirens sounding their weekly test.

"It's all a matter of how hard we push it," Von Braun said. "If we have the backing the Manhattan project had, it would be only a matter of a few years."

Once the space station is established as a stepping stone, he asserted, man could land on the moon in 15 to 20 years' time.

DESIGNED V2'S

Dr. von Braun, developer of the U.S. army's new long-range Redstone guided missile, was the designer of the German V2 rockets which battered English cities near the end of the Second World War.

The 42-year-old scientist was technical director of the V2 rocket program at Peenemunde, Germany. When the war was over, Von Braun gathered about 130 leading German rocket experts and fled to the Western zone.

Von Braun said he and his fellow scientists came to America and many of them are on his staff at the Redstone Arsenal, Ala., where he is chief of guided missile development for army ordnance corps.

Asked about the American and Russian scramble for German scientists, the 42-year-old expert said the Russians concentrated on finding production people, "people who know how to make the V2's — the Russians got the skill but the brains came over to America."

Von Braun explained that there is "hardly any mystery in the development of rockets." He said "any engineer with a bachelor's degree" can follow the development of rocket weapons and can explore space flight possibilities.

Late Briefs

Socialists May Join Cabinet

PARIS (AP)—Informed officials said Monday Premier Mendes-France will bring the Socialists into his coalition government within the next two weeks, thus ensuring French ratification of the agreements to rearm West Germany.

Russia-China Clash Seen

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Sir Alexander Grantham, governor of the Crown colony of Hong Kong, says Red China and Russia are natural rivals and that "sooner or later they will clash."

Grantham said the masses of Red China are "so ignorant they feel America intends to go to war against them, although Russia is a greater threat to them."

Death Row Author Loses Appeal

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Supreme Court yesterday turned down the appeal of Death Row author Caryl Chessman, sentenced to die in California's gas chamber for a series of Los Angeles rape-kidnappings.

By its action, the highest U.S. court washed its hands of the case once and for all, but at the same time left alive a glimmer of hope by recommending that Chessman's attorney go back to Federal District Court for a writ of habeas corpus to test the fairness of his trial.

Trade Agreement Set Today

BONN (Reuters)—The conclusion of a three-year trade agreement between France and West Germany will be announced in a joint communique to be published in Paris and Bonn today, Walter Hallstein, permanent state secretary in the West Germany foreign office said.

Youth, 19, Shot to Death

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Provincial police reported that Marcel Dalpe, about 19, was shot to death in his father's garage at his home in Brome, 60 miles southeast of Montreal, Monday night.

Police said the shooting occurred while Marcel was accompanied by his brother George, 16. Their father, George Sr., was not at home at the time, the police reported.

Second Plane Lost

NICE, France (AP)—While rescue planes of three countries swept the skies from Corsica to the French Alps for a U.S. Air Force C-47 missing since Sunday afternoon with 21 aboard, a second—and unidentified—two-engined aircraft plunged Monday into the storm-swept waters of the Mediterranean.

New Measures Indicated When Parliament Meets

OTTAWA—Increased unemployment-insurance benefits for jobless workers and lower taxes for business and industry may be the federal government's answer to the unemployment problem.

There are indications that changes in the Unemployment Insurance Act, aimed mainly at protecting out-of-work Canadians through the winter months, will be presented to parliament when it sits early in the new year.

And Finance Minister Harris is said to be considering tax reductions for his 1955-56 budget even though these would result in a large deficit.

The tax cuts would be directed toward business and industry, rather than to the individual taxpayer, as a means of encouraging greater economic activity and employment to give the whole country a shot in the arm.

A deficit—Canada's first since 1945-46—is shaping up for the current year. Although the government is concerned, it reportedly feels that if the deficit is less than $100,000,000 it will have no serious impact on the Canadian economy.

In the next budget, defense spending may be cut from its present $2,000,000,000 and the public works department may get more money for an expanded work program which would sop up some of the labor surplus.

For the unemployed, insurance benefits may be stretched in two ways. The minimum period in which unemployed persons may draw benefits may be extended to 20 weeks, to cover the low-employment winter season.

For workers in higher pay brackets, benefit payments may be increased from the present maximum of $24 a week for those with dependents, $17.10 for single men.

Experts now are studying the $880,000,000 unemployment insurance fund to determine whether increased payments will be necessary to cover these increased benefits.

Unknown Slaying Disclosed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A surprise admission by a prisoner in the B.C. penitentiary was reported Monday to have disclosed a murder at Kamloops 10 years ago which RCMP did not know had taken place.

Details of the slaying were closely guarded by police order. The victim was thought at the time to have simply left the district.

Last week a new lead was found by Kamloops RCMP which changed the picture. A sergeant was sent in the penitentiary to interview a man imprisoned on another charge.

Farmer Kills Boy in Error

WARNER, N.H. (AP) — Farmer Walter F. Alway shot and killed his 12-year-old son, Walter, Jr., Sunday night, thinking the youngster's movements in tall grass were those of a wild pig, state police reported Monday.

'Segregation' Bombing Urged

ALEXANDER CITY, Ala. (AP) — A Negro minister has told police that two unidentified men urged him to blow up the new Negro high school here and "bomb segregation out of existence."

New Golf Column Slated for Colonist

Harry Young, who is well known to readers of The Daily Colonist as financial and business editor of this paper, starts another column this week.

To be called "At The 19th," the column will appear each Wednesday.

Harry is not breaking new ground. Before he came to Canada six years ago, he was sports editor of The Evening Citizen in Glasgow.

He gave up the idea of qualifying for a similar job in Canada after watching box lacrosse, Canadian football, baseball and other New World favorites.

"I would have had to start my education all over again," he says.

But golf is the same the whole world over, and Harry Young is well qualified to compile the new column.

He is a charter member of the British Golf Writers' Association, of which Bernard Darwin is president, and from 1930 until the war he covered most of the British championships and leading tournaments.

A regular player himself, Harry plays off a handicap of 13 at the Victoria Golf Club.

Vishinsky Assails West German Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia's Andrei Vishinsky attacked the recent London and Paris agreements on West Germany Monday as increasing instead of lessening international tension.

"Can it be suggested that the London and Paris agreements for the restoration of the German Wehrmacht—for the setting up of an army of 500,000 under the command of Hitlerite generals bent on revenge—can be reconciled with the disarmament task over which we are laboring here?"

Vishinsky attacked the agreement near the end of a 2¼-hour speech on disarmament in the UN's political committee.

"I say you can't have new pacts which make for aggression while you are supposedly seeking disarmament here."

At the same time, Vishinsky said Russia and the West had come closer together on the disarmament problem.

"The Soviet Union, having for its part taken steps to bring our positions closer together, expects that corresponding steps will be taken by the Western powers."

Sweep Prize Will Start Home

Making plans to sink $1,075 into a new home are Mrs. William C. (Lenora) McQuillin, 1175 Oscar Street, and her seven-year-old son John who are looking over a letter notifying Mrs. McQuillin she has drawn an Irish sweep ticket on a horse in the Cambridgeshire tomorrow. But the horse, Cockruilah, will not start; so the city woman has no chance for the top prize of $140,000. (See Page 6.)

Magistrate Halts Two-Year Pursuit

Brunette Chases Bachelor Right into Court

NEW YORK (UP)—A 28-year-old bachelor went to court yesterday to complain that an office secretary has been chasing him for two years. He said her attentions were unwanted.

James Clancy, an accountant, said he got more than he had counted on when he went to the Sembodja Corp., an import-export firm, two years ago to go over their books.

He said Rose Mauro, 22, a secretary at the firm, watched him at work and has been in hot pursuit ever since.

Miss Mauro has telephoned him, followed his car in her own, waved her hand at him, leaned out of the car and called to him, and accosted him on the street, he said.

Clancy said he put up a "determined resistance" to all these advances. He was engaged to another girl, he said, and fortunately she believed his explanation for Miss Mauro's conduct.

When Clancy finished telling his story to Magistrate Thomas J. Gray, Miss Mauro was called to testify.

Gray asked her what she had to say about the charge.

"It won't happen again," she said.

Gray said that was a "negative admission" of guilt and dismissed the court.

Clancy sprinted from the courtroom, but comely brunette Miss Mauro was in no hurry to leave. She said as far as she was concerned the whole thing was over.

Newsmen who raced after Clancy asked him to what he attributed Miss Mauro's persistent interest in him.

"I have no idea," he gasped, and fled.

Scottish Trust Head To Speak in Victoria

The Earl of Wemyss and March, chairman of the National Trust for Scotland will visit Victoria during a seven-week lecture tour of North America.

He is endeavoring to stir up interest in the trust among Canadians and Americans of Scottish descent. Formed in 1931, the trust is a private organization fostering the preservation of places and objects with a historical background.

Traveling with Lord Wemyss are his wife and John Kerr, assistant secretary of the organization, which has its headquarters in Edinburgh. The exact date of his Victoria visit is not yet known.

"We hope for great success in this tour. Many people do not know of the existence of the trust, and through our lectures we hope to show them the work we are doing, furthering their interest of preservation of the past," Lord Wemyss says.

Vessel Due At Vancouver

The Johnson Line motorship Portland will reach Vancouver November 2 to complete discharge of cargo at Pacific Coast ports after a trip from Europe and Latin America, agents announced yesterday.

The vessel is carrying such items as glass, nails, wire and refrigerated cargo, and will begin loading at Vancouver for her return voyage.

Comet Prober

Mrs. Anne Burns, 35, is the principal science officer who participated in air tests to determine the cause of recent Comet jet airliner crashes in the Mediterranean. Conducted by the Royal Aircraft Establishment at Farnborough, England, the tests led to the conclusion that metal fatigue was responsible for the disasters.—Central Press Canadian.

Gideons' Talks End

Approximately 300 persons filled Metropolitan United Church hall last night for a banquet which ended the two-day 10th annual International Pacific Northwest convention of the Gideons.

Rev. F. E. H. James of Metropolitan United was the main speaker.

Delegates from Washington State and B.C. attended the convention to discuss many topics, including duties and responsibilities of Gideons, personal evangelism, special camp undertakings and spiritual preparation and testimony of the individual Gideon.

Battle-Readiness Of German Army Two Years Away

PARIS (Reuters)—The first of Germany's new soldiers may be in uniform by April but it will be about two years before they are combat-ready, officials at Supreme Allied headquarters believe.

Officials say it will be 1956 before German officers and men can be sufficiently trained to take up operational positions beside their new allies in the integrated army of the Atlantic pact and the Western European Union.

There has been a 10-year break in German military continuity. The only advantage the new troops will have will be that of stepping right into atomic-age military thinking, instead of being slowly converted from that of the Second World War.

The Allied command is expected to "make haste slowly" in bringing in the German troops. Although some orders may be placed for military construction programs in Germany toward the new year, the first soldier will not be called up until after all the Paris treaties have been ratified—perhaps by the end of February.

END OCCUPATION

The 13 documents totaling 30,000 words end the occupation of the federal republic, form a Western European Union of seven states and invite West Germany to join the North Atlantic Organization.

West Germany will contribute 500,000 troops, plus small air and sea forces, to the armies of the Western European Union, which will come under the overall command of the NATO supreme commander in Europe.

Early in the spring the first German officers may be assigned to Supreme Allied headquarters. There will probably be one top-ranking figure and an aide or two, officials believe.

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's Federation of Farm Women's Clubs has asked the federal government to legalize lotteries in Quebec.

The 30,000-member organization made the request in a resolution adopted during its annual meeting this week.

Another resolution asked Ottawa to proclaim a distinctive Canadian flag.

Baby Boy Breaks String Of 13 Girls in Family

PITTSFIELD, Me. (AP)—The Brooks' family claim to be the biggest all-girl family in the United States—there are 13 girls—was broken Sunday by the birth of a boy.

Leslie Benjamin Brooks was born to 39-year-old Mrs. Lloyd Brooks in the living room of the family's house. He weighed six pounds, eight ounces.

The father, a $50-a-week truck driver who is also 39, disclosed that he had been secretly hoping for a son all along.

Mrs. Brooks, tired but happy, would not commit herself when asked if she was disappointed.

"We'll love him just as much as the girls," she said.

Many Safety Measures Protect Navy Fliers—Practice Tops List

BY J. T. JONES

Navy pilots can't get enough of flying.

When the aircraft carrier HMCS Magnificent is at sea, her planes are up whenever weather permits. When the "Maggie" is in harbor for a courtesy visit and a lick of paint, the planes head for the nearest airport to fly some more.

The fliers aren't necessarily wild about aviation. But the difference between a dignified stroll back to the wardroom and a noisy smash into a flight-deck safety barrier is a matter of inches, and flying skill and judgment are things that soon get rusty if they aren't used.

The man in charge of all flying aboard Magnificent is Cmdr. V. J. Wilgress, son of L. Dana Wilgress, distinguished Canadian diplomat.

CMDR. V. J. WILGRESS
. . . boss of RCN pilots.

Commander Wilgress had Avengers and Sea Furies moved to Patricia Bay Airport Sunday, and the long hours of instrument flying, formation practice and ground support exercises started yesterday.

WORSE THAN IT LOOKS

It doesn't take an expert to see it's a tricky business dropping a fast-moving aircraft onto a carrier deck. It's worse than it looks.

Only about half of the 700-foot deck is used for landings, and a sturdy barrier marks the end of the turn. Parked planes fill the rest. Steel cables stretched across the deck catch a hook dragged from a landing plane's tail and snub it to a stop, with a huge hydraulic cylinder absorbing the shock.

If the arresting hook misses the first cable, there are nine more. If it catches the second last it goes into the barrier anyway and it hits the barrier that much harder. This is a routine hazard, Commander Wilgress says. Happened three times on the way here from Halifax.

A key man in landings is the "bat man," who stands at one side of the flight deck waving luminous pink paddles. He judges height and speed of the approaching aircraft and signals faster or slower, left or right, up or down. The pilot never takes his eyes off the paddles.

LAUNCHING EASIER

Launching is a lot simpler all around. The plane taxis onto a catapult, wires are hooked up fore and aft, hydraulic pressure is applied, the tail wire snaps and the nose wire hurls the aircraft to flying speed in a matter of yards.

Navy fliers don't like a calm day, Commander Wilgress says. What pleases them most is wind speed and ship's speed adding up to about 40 miles an hour, to make the plane's relative speed as low as possible. Too much wind and the deck will heave. Too little and they land too fast.

For these and other reasons there are certain safety measures. A helicopter hovers nearby during all take-offs and landings. Men in asbestos suits are ready with fire equipment. Four blasts on the pipe and all cigarettes are doused throughout the ship. An escort vessel stands by to pick up anything valuable—like a plane or a pilot—that goes into the water.

But the biggest safety measure of all is practice—all the fliers can get.

Thomas Stevenson Funeral Wednesday

E. H. Rendle Rites Today

N.H.A. HOMES
MORE THAN 90 VICTORIANS HAVE had or are having homes constructed through Northwest Homes and there has been a dissatisfied homebuilder among them. In every case the home is worth more than it cost them. These people have been offered profits up to 33⅓%.
You are assured of a fine home because only good materials are used; we will not work with inferior contractors, the home buyer receives savings through efficient operation of mass buying and building. In most cases Mr. Morey of Northwest Homes starts the home while under construction three or four times a week—No other real estate firm will give you this service!
The subdivisions we have opened meet the same high standards as our building requirements. Madrona Park and Sherwood Oaks as well as a new subdivision adjoining Athlone Drive are considered the best areas. It costs no more to build on a good building site and the selection of a good site in a good area will have a greater influence on the value of your home than any other factor.
See our plans and building sites now. Phone 3-9411 anytime or call at 817 Douglas Street.

BY ROY FARRETT

Victoria chalked up another TV "first" over the week end. The city now boasts a car, equipped with television.

It is believed to be the first in Canada.

Cecil Hall, of Langford, built the 17-inch car set "from the ground up," for MacDonalds Limited, where he is employed as TV technician.

It will be used for test purposes by the local firm.

The set operates from the normal car battery, and uses a simple aerial mounted on the roof of the vehicle.

All local channels were received in the car at Langford, over the week end, by Mr. Hall.

It took the enterprizing TV man about ten days to complete the mobile set, working evenings and during his spare time.

B.C. Civil Servants Plan Full Answer To League's Charge

Charges of wilful inefficiency against B.C. civil servants by the B.C. Social Credit League will be answered fully at B.C. Government Employees' Association convention.

This was indicated yesterday by executives of the employees' group who meet in Nanaimo later this week for their annual convention. Most witnesses comment on the charges will have been asked by the convention delegates.

MOTION PASSED

A resolution was passed Saturday by the Social Credit League annual convention denouncing "nameless civil servants" for being "wilfully inefficient in the discharge of their duties apparently with a view to bringing civil service government into disrepute."

Herbert Cuthbert, secretary of the Victoria local of the Social Credit League, said the resolution was passed almost without discussion. The only speaker opposing the motion was a delegate who said he was opposed to the motion because he thought it was a matter for the executive to handle.

Mr. Cuthbert said the resolution was passed unanimously by the 200 delegates present.

"We were all aware of the situation, but didn't think it was necessary to take any action," he said. "They should have taken it to the executive."

Two cabinet ministers, Education Minister Ray Williston and Provincial Secretary Wesley D. Black, told the Social Credit League convention Saturday that they were not prepared to take any action on the resolution.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett was absent at the time. The resolution does, however, state that the premier was on the agenda for that day.

FIRM DENIAL

A rumor that the resignation from the Executive of the Social Credit Constituency Association was prompted by the government was firmly denied by Mr. Williston, whose ruling to Earl George.

"Nothing could be further from the truth than to assert that," he said. He declared that no threat or pressure from the cabinet probably through Mr. Black who will address the government employees meeting, should make clear the government's stand on the matter.

In Vancouver opposition leader Arthur Laing suggested that Premier Bennett apologize to B.C.'s civil servants.

Antique Business Looks Good All Over

Victoria antique dealers said to quality goods more than off yesterday their business here sets a decline in the sales of was in happy tune with reports it is estimated the trade will do a record $200,000,000 in sales this year.

Spokesmen for the trade here said sales were as good as or a little better than last year in the over-all picture with trend to year-round business rather than peak tourist season trade.

Stock-in-trade in shops here vary like their counterparts in other districts and countries, may range from a 25-cent toothpick holder to a $1,200 Queen Anne highboy or even more valuable paintings.

Naturally more toothpick holders are sold than highboys, but dealers here say the trend is antique.

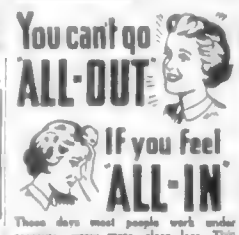
You can't go ALL-OUT IF you feel ALL-IN



These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 40

Thief Acts Nonchalant At Sentence

A two-year penitentiary sentence didn't make much of an initial impression on Richard Albert Brooks of Colwood yesterday.

"Two years time in prison is just a sleep, commented Brooks who has a criminal record dating back to 1942.

The 27-year-old man was found guilty of the theft of $1,197 from Colwood Inn last Labor Day after a three-day trial before Judge J. B. Clearihue in County Court.

The money was not recovered.

Brooks' fair-haired wife wept when sentence was passed.

The accused broke into the inn through a window in the roof and removed the money from an unlocked safe.

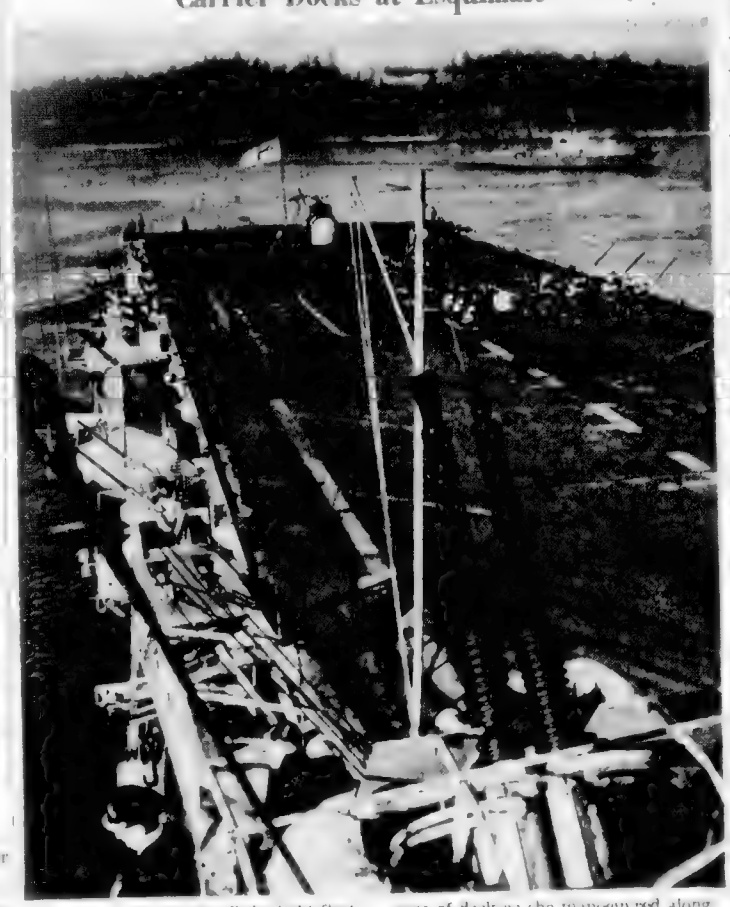
Carrier Docks at Esquimalt



Canada's only "flat-top," the light fleet carrier HMCS Magnificent, arrived at Esquimalt yesterday and will stay on this coast until November 9. A smart 18-piece band of the "Maggie," helicopter, and officers are pictured on her acre of deck as she manoeuvred alongside Jetty A, HMC Dockyard, yesterday. Twin-barrel Bofors are in foreground. Magnificent will be open for inspection three days while here.

Proud Queen of Navy Mounts Harbor Throne

Canada's biggest warship, the aircraft carrier Magnificent, sailed into Esquimalt harbor yesterday morning, tied up at HMC Dockyard, and dwarfed all ships of the Pacific Command.

She is 18,000 tons and nearly 700 feet long and her churning screws churned up mud and weed at the bottom of Esquimalt Harbor as she slowly manoeuvred into the jetty assisted by navy tugs.

The carrier will remain at Esquimalt until next Monday when she will cross to Vancouver and remain their until November 5. Then she returns to Esquimalt until November 9.

While in port here, Magnificent will be open to the public for inspection from 2 to 5 p.m. on three days—Saturday, October 30; Sunday, October 31, and Sunday, November 7.

She is the first aircraft carrier to use harbor facilities here since HMCS Warrior, a sister ship, was stationed here during the winter of 1946-47.

ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME

Victoria gave the "Maggie" an enthusiastic welcome, but her crew, nearly all from the East appeared in no hurry to see the city. Only 30 crew members out of the 1,200 in the ship's company applied for leave here.

One sailor said yesterday it was because the men are out of money. They spent their cash in southern ports visited on the way from Halifax. Most of them were "broke" when they visited San Francisco last week.

But Thursday is pay day on Magnificent and it is expected Victoria will get a look at the sailors then.

Magnificent barely squeezed through the Panama Canal. Gun sponsons had to be taken off and the ship trimmed down by five feet. "She bumped once or twice," one of her crew said yesterday.

One estimate placed the cost of going through the Panama Canal at $16,000 each way.

KNEW HER WELL

To two city newsmen, the visit of Magnificent is of more than passing interest.

Cameraman Jim Ryan served as photographer on the "Maggie" when she was commissioned in the RCN in 1948. He boarded her yesterday at Albert Head with a press party.

Columnist Tom Taylor lived in the admiral's suite of the "Maggie" when he sailed to the Coronation in 1953 in the carrier. He was first to board her when she docked yesterday.

Present air complement of the Magnificent is 18 Canadian-adapted, Avenger-type, anti-submarine aircraft and 10 Sea Fury fighters.

Eleven Avengers and six Sea Furies from the carrier are based at Patricia Bay for the duration of the visit.

The others are stowed on the carrier in a damaged condition result of several minor "pranks" — crashes and two major ones which occurred during the trip here. No one was seriously injured.

EQUAL TO DESTROYER

In the opinion of many experts each aircraft on a carrier is roughly the same value as a destroyer in protecting convoyed merchant shipping.

The Magnificent is not equipped to handle jets, but the Bonaventure, which is now being built in the U.K. to replace the "Maggie" in Canada's navy, will have an angle flight deck and will be able to handle heavier and faster aircraft, including jets.

Bonadventure, which is expected to be delivered to Canada in 1956, will have steam catapults for launching jets.

Magnificent's two air squadrons are commanded by Lieut.-Cmdr. Robert Cocks of 2386 Estevan Avenue, Victoria who has VS 881 Avenger Squadron, and Lieut.-Cmdr. J. W. Logan of Nova Scotia who has VF 871 squadron of Sea Furies.

ISLAND EXERCISES

While on the Island the two squadrons will engage in tactical and photographic reconnaissance work. They will work as far north as Comox. There are 120 squadron personnel on the carrier including 45 Avenger air crew and 10 Sea Fury air crew.

The flight-deck complement numbers 100 men.

Cmdr. Victor J. Wingrass commands the air division.

Commanding officer of Magnificent is Commodore Herbert S. Rayner, who was well-known to Victorians when he was commandant of the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads in 1948. He has been in command of the "Maggie" since March, 1953.

Magnificent loomed out of fog yesterday morning as a press party approached her near Albert Head. She made her escort, the Pacific Command's HMCS Stettler, look very small and the lighter grey of the Atlantic Command shone brightly in the morning sun.

FLOATING CITY

On board newsmen found Magnificent like a floating city. She has an acre of deck is more than two city blocks long and more than 100 feet wide.

Under the flat flight deck is a complex maze of quarters, galleys and instrument rooms.

Crew members say she is a happy ship and they enjoy serving aboard her.

Two crew members who were keen to see Victoria were Captain Conrad Namiesinowski, who would have been Poland's chief of naval staff if his country hadn't fallen in the Second World War, and Lieut.-Cmdr. Bill Herbert, CBC announcer in Vancouver, who sailed as information officer.

EX-COLONIST MAN

Both are members of the reserve navy and made the cruise for training. Lieut.-Cmdr. Herbert is a former Daily Colonist employee.

Captain Namiesinowski came to Vancouver Island in 1949 and settled at Duncan, first working on a farm digging ditches and later in a mill at Chemainus. He is now employed with the Defence Research Board in Ottawa.

Maximum speed of "Maggie" is 30 knots, her armament includes 16 single-barrel Bofors and six twin-barrel Bofors. In addition to Sea Furies and Avengers she carries a helicopter.

Power Failure

Failure of a B.C. Power Commission line south of Nanaimo was reported the cause of a 30-minute blackout of about 80 per cent of Victoria at 6.50 p.m. yesterday.

B. C. Electric Company officials said priority power was maintained to hospitals and the downtown vicinity from power supplies at Jordan River and Brentwood.

Dim light was the result in some other areas, including Nanaimo.

Deadly Package Stolen

Colwood RCMP last night issued a warning to parents to be on the lookout for detonator caps stolen during the week-end from the new Island Highway construction project.

Police said they thought the theft might be the work of children. The caps were taken from a locked portable magazine near where the new highway will intersect Millstream Road.

"They are very dangerous and could cause severe injury or death," said a constable. The detonators look like silver pencils about an inch and a half long.

The quantity taken is unknown. A full box contains 50 caps.

Any person with information about the caps should call Colwood RCMP immediately. They should not be picked up if found lying on the ground.

Mistreated Canadian Captives

Pearkes To Demand Reasons For War Crime Penalty Cut

Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, said last night he will demand "all the facts and the reasons" for the reported reduction in the sentences of two Japanese war criminals when parliament sits early in the new year.

He was commenting on an Ottawa report which said the two prisoners originally sentenced to death, would have their terms further reduced.

The prisoners are Lt.-Gen. Isao Takahaga, Hong Kong prison camp commander, and Capt. Shokichi Sato. They were scheduled to be hanged in December 1949 but the sentences were commuted to life imprisonment.

The Ottawa report said Takanagas's sentence was cut to 20 years and Sato's to 15 years.

STILL UNPROVIDED FOR

General Pearkes said he was "amazed" to learn of the sentence reductions. "In view of the fact that there are a large number of Canadian soldiers who suffered in Hong Kong and who are still inadequately provided for."

He said he will ask the government for a full explanation "as soon as parliament assembles."

"There is no doubt these men were guilty of atrocities against Canadian soldiers," he said. "I have the greatest sympathy for our Hong Kong veterans, many of whom I knew personally."

He said he would be glad to discuss the matter with Victoria veterans of Hong Kong.

Members of the Hong Kong Veterans' Association which has about 300 members in Canada were indignant over the Ottawa report.

"BREACH OF FAITH"

Lionel Speller, unofficial spokesman for Greater Victoria [illegible] veteran's association, said yesterday that "something be done about this breach of faith."

Mr. Speller was shocked at the report. "I didn't ever know their sentences had been commuted to life," he said. "I thought they were hanged long ago."

Mr. Speller said he had often been slapped by Capt. Saito and that he had seen other men "beaten into pulp" by Japanese camp officials.

He said six Hong Kong veterans are still in hospital, that one out of 19 has gone blind since repatriation as a result of prison camp treatment, and that 75 per cent of children born to Winnipeg veterans of Hong Kong have inherited deformities.

"And yet the men who are responsible for this are getting off with 15 or 20 years," he said. "I can't understand it."

Mr. Speller, a Signal Corps dispatch rider who was awarded the Military Medal for "courage and devotion to duty above the ordinary," was captured with other Canadian troops when Hong Kong fell on Christmas Day, 1941. He spent the last six months of the war in a punishment camp for sabotage.

TV Fund Near Top

St. Joseph's Villa's television and recreation fund is within $518 of its $10,000 target.

Jerry Gosse's Smile Show collected $50 in week-end performances at Garages to bring the total to $9,482.

The fund drive ends Sunday when the Gosley troupe appears at the Fox Theatre to repeat the performance it recently gave at the Langham Court Theatre.

Doors of $1 or more may exchange their receipts for tickets to the Fox show at Keiths Ltd.

Taking part in Sunday's show will be Irene Henderson, Munt Bavin, Brenda Myers, Al Dawson and Jerry Gosse, with Bernie Read at the organ.

Deadly Package Stolen

Colwood RCMP last night issued a warning to parents to be on the lookout for detonator caps stolen during the week-end from the new Island Highway construction project.

Police said they thought the theft might be the work of children. The caps were taken from a locked portable magazine near where the new highway will intersect Millstream Road.

"They are very dangerous and could cause severe injury or death," said a constable. The detonators look like silver pencils about an inch and a half long.

The quantity taken is unknown. A full box contains 50 caps.

Any person with information about the caps should call Colwood RCMP immediately. They should not be picked up if found lying on the ground.

Victoria Seeking Heliport

Victoria is already making a detailed study of sites which could be reserved for a heliport, City Manager Cecil Wyatt said last night.

Mr. Wyatt was asked to comment on the view expressed Sunday by Carl Agar, helicopter expert of Okanagan Helicopters and Trans-Canada Air Lines, that the city should make provision soon for a heliport.

Acting on city council instructions, the city manager last August began compiling information from expert sources bearing on the future development of a helicopter service here. Because of its technical and detailed nature, it may be some time yet before the survey can be completed.

Mr. Wyatt is fully aware of the potentialities of this area as a future base for helicopter service.

He said the triangle service between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle appears exceptionally well-suited for development of helicopter travel.

TCA, which surveyed the Victoria-Vancouver run, has stated its first use of scheduled airline helicopters will likely be on this route, possibly in five years.

VICTORIA BY DAY AND NIGHT

BY BARNEY McKINLEY

More, in the manner of Samuel Pepys.

Am minded to go immediately to Hawaii after listening yesterday to airline company representative Ken Wilson, he in Victoria on way to Vancouver where his company will open first Canadian office (simultaneously with one in Toronto).

Born in Vancouver, he returns to his home port with opening of new office, after years in the United States, and seems happy to be back.

Found of great interest his report his company now sells air trips to Hawaii and other exciting lands on the instalment plan similar to those whereby many of us purchase refrigerators and other commodities.

The jaunt to the land of the leis, he said, could be arranged for as little as $25 down and $10 a month. Not yet tried by the company in Canada, the plan is being considered for this nation.

As to this I say: The sooner the better. For it comes to me a man often enough has $25 on hand when the mood to see a palm tree comes over him and might at once close the [illegible] of $250 to head for a hula he would think once again—and so miss the magic of Hawaii.

Even more interested in Mr. Wilson's account of company activities were local travel men K. S. Bains and Peter Wong with partner Ben Mar.

Am planning today to eat my fill of meat pasties and some good rare roast beef after sitting down yesterday to three meals where fish was the main dish.

This plentitude of fish fare came about following a fishing derby Sunday when staff members of this paper did almost clean out Brentwood Bay of grilse using mainly a green and white bucktail fly which the fish seemed entirely unable to resist.

Total catch came close to 70 fish even though the fishermen were careful not to exceed the limit. Of this, being a sorry fisherman, my take was one grilse, and one strange spiked creature of which I was sore afraid especially that I should accidentally sit on it.

My own catch not being thought sufficient to enable me to make a brave showing at home better fishermen pressed some of their catch on me with the result my thrifty mother-in-law gave up all thoughts of buying meat until all the fish be eaten.

Not willing to be thought ungrateful I resolve to say no more about the matter, but secretly to plan for a hunting derby next year.

Report that horse racing will return to Victoria area next year has both gladdened and saddened me.

I cannot help feeling pleased being one of those who knows one horse can run faster than another yet delights in seeing it proved seven or eight times a day while the season lasts—never really tiring of it.

But at the same time dismayed because, also being one of those who remains puzzled throughout as to which one of the horses will run faster than the others, I make wagers often enough based on lucky numbers, color of jockey's silks, hunches, etc.

And so have cause at the end of the day to reflect. This is truly the sport of kings if we are thinking of beggar kings.

Experienced Hunter Missing Overnight

(Special to The Colonist)

CAMPBELL RIVER—Delbert Ross, about 40, widely-experienced hunter of this district, was lost overnight in deep bush country but found by a search party early Sunday.

He was suffering from hunger and exposure, although he had built himself a lean-to and fire, and had shot and butchered a deer.

At one time 117 men were out in the woods hunting him.

Fear for Ross prompted the hunt when he failed to keep an evening appointment Saturday.

Const. Thomas Foster, RCMP, George Watson and Alvin Parkin, trapper and guide, found Ross' bivouac and brought him out of the woods.

WOOD WET

He realized he was lost, he told them, and made camp. But fuel was wet and he had difficulty [illegible] keeping warm in the bitter weather.

Robert White of Victoria was reported lost Sunday morning by a companion, Alfred Cameron, also of Victoria. But the missing man found his way out of the woods to Camp Five, MacMillan & Bloedel, after a search party had been organized.

The Ross search party was organized by Jack Wheeler and Rex Haines, game warden in the district.

Bad Deed Hits Scouts

Someone did a bad deed last night.

Mr. Hansen will lecture at the Greater Victoria Arts Centre tomorrow evening.

City Men Found Dead

Found dead in their beds yesterday were Antonio Sturam, 65, of 23 Menzies, and Joseph Burdgeat Wilson, 744 Discovery, who was in his fifties.

Police reported both deaths were due to natural causes.

Mr. Sturam, who came to Canada from Italy about 50 years ago, has no known relatives. A doctor was called about 8 a.m. after another roomer heard Mr. Sturam gasping for breath. He had been ill for several years.

Among his belongings were three watches and $3.44 in cash.

Police were told that Mr. Wilson was last seen alive Saturday night. They found him dead at 10.30 a.m. yesterday.

His widow and three children are said to have gone to live in Calgary last June.

Monthly meeting of the Kipling Society will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at 317 Cook Street.

Bob Crosby's Boys Run Away, But Spend Only One Night Out

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Band-leader Bob Crosby's three young sons decided to run away from home for a couple of days with some friends, but spent a sleepless night in a hillside shack instead because of a lack of grievance against their parents.

The youngsters had a fine night to have some exciting adventure, packed bags and were warmly backed by Gypsy Warrener, 11, who is employed as a maid in the home of Crosby's brother-in-law, Bing. Warrener discovered them. He had watched the boys on television.

But before the boys were located, a 90-man posse conducted an all-night search of the Bel Air Hills, behind the ex-[illegible] Bel Air [illegible] estate adjoining Beverly Hills.

AT DAYBREAK

The boys, [illegible] Christopher, 11, Dennis, 10, and Lindsay, 9, departed at 10 o'clock after dinner, supposedly shortly after dusk, carrying sleeping bags and a knapsack containing food. They walked to the home of Warrener's parents but she refused to open the door. She had not seen the young boys.

It was not until about 10:30 that the youngsters' absence was discovered by Bing's wife, Dixie Lee, who had put them to bed. Mrs. Crosby then telephoned Warrener's parents, but they had not seen the boys.

Then Mrs. Crosby called the police and within the hour a dragnet of [illegible] was thrown around the Bel Air Hills.

Bing, on location in Arizona, was notified of the search but was told not to leave the picture.

Mrs. Crosby said she was certain the boys would return home.

"They felt they were getting a raw deal and when they thought it was necessary they ran away," she said.

"I suppose we were a bit strict. I'm going to have a serious talk with them."

"We are not running away from Mom," said Chris. "It's nobody's business. She likes to have the house and we don't like it."

Both Crosby and his wife have praised Gypsy Warrener, 11, who is employed as a maid in the home of Crosby's brother-in-law, Bing. Warrener discovered them. He had watched the boys on television.

NEW Firestone SAFTI-TUBELESS TIRES

AT NO EXTRA COST!

35% Safer!

The new 1955 cars will headline many new features, but none of them will be more important to your safety, your comfort or your pocketbook than tubeless tires as standard equipment at NO EXTRA COST! This great new tire — completely new in design and construction — sets entirely new standards of safety, riding comfort, mileage and silence.

Automotive Engineers Acclaim Its Many New Features

When the new Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tubeless Tire was first offered to car manufacturers, they subjected it to their most severe and exhaustive tests. And this new tire passed every test with performance far beyond all expectations. They found it ran quietly and refused to squeal on the sharpest turns, took the danger out of blowouts, abolished roadside delays and provided riding comfort and steering ease never before possible.

You Can Have This Great New Tire On Your New 1955 Car or On Your Present Car

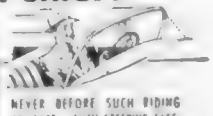
When you buy a new model car of any make, you can have it delivered on new Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tubeless Tires. Or, if you continue to drive your present car, you can have these new tires put on it at no extra cost — no special rims are needed. See your nearby Firestone Dealer for complete information.

PACKED WITH NEW FEATURES FOR 4-WAY SAFETY

NEW SILENT SAFTI-GRIP TREAD runs quietly and refuses to squeal on even the sharpest turns. It gives greater protection against skidding and greater traction than any tire ever before offered. And despite [illegible] new design makes it a real champion for long, trouble-free mileage.

SEALS PUNCTURES AGAINST LOSS OF AIR. If a nail or other sharp object should penetrate the extra-tough tread and cord body, the SAFTI-SEAL prevents loss of air, eliminating the danger and annoyance of punctures. Most likely you'll never know you have a puncture . . . and there's no need to stop and change the tire.

TAKES THE DANGER OUT OF BLOWOUTS. The new SAFTI-DISHED CORD BODY and the new SAFTI-TWIST and tubeless construction make the tire extra strong and take the danger out of blowouts. Damage which might cause an ordinary tire to blow out becomes as harmless as a slow leak.



NEVER BEFORE SUCH RIDING COMFORT . . . SUCH STEERING EASE. You'll immediately notice its sensational riding comfort and steering ease. It absorbs bumps and road shocks and provides a super soft cushion of rubber and air which smooths out even the roughest roads. Extra-tough CURB-GUARD which protects white sidewalls.

Sports Parade

BY OSCAR FRALEY

If you are one of those people who become confused through the use of sporting nicknames such as Tigers, Lions, Wildcats et al you probably shudder over your ignorance when somebody discusses the doings of the Hoyas or the Boilermakers.

I know I do.

"Boilermakers" as a nickname before was an useless fragment of the Atom bomb. So at the cost of great expense and energy, namely two cent postcards to the Institutions involved, I am now give you the scoop on those puzzlers above.

Purdues nickname came about as a result of a game with Wabash College in the '80s. Wabash students, as representatives of a liberal arts institution, stared down their schnozzles at the cultural background of the Purdue players who studied such practical items as engineering and agriculture. During the game they called the Purdue men among other things "Boiler makers."

It states.

Take the Salukis of Southern Illinois University. Naturally, they are dogs, you tell me, but the Salukis. It seems that southern Illinois became known as "Little Egypt" during the great efforts of the 1920's. The Saluki is a famous Egyptian hunting dog. Enough the nickname.

Where I come from, white mine also is regarded as a liquid refreshment guaranteed to banish cares, worries and the ravings of the stomach. But Colby College stalwarts are known as "White mules." The reason is that Colby tired in 1924 of being known as an athletic dark horse. The transition was simple and not only that but they have one too.

Harvard advises us [illegible] characters that "Crimson simply is short for Cantabrigian—or a person who lives in Cambridge." That straightens enough is exactly where Harvard is located.

The Williams College nickname is easily explained. The college was founded by Colonel Ephraim Williams and he was due to pronounce it "eef" not "eff."

* * *

B.C. in favorite is the "Hoyas" of Georgetown. It seems that prior to 1900 every Georgetown student was required to study both Latin and Greek probably so they could work crossword puzzles. During this period there was a Georgetown team of great defensive prowess called the "Hoyas." The students came up with the cry "Hoya Saxa" a mangled Greek Latin expression meaning approximately "what rocks."

Incidentally the above may not mean anything either.

Which could mean, who ever happened to football at Georgetown or what in the world is this all about anyway.

Lions End in Fog As Game Called; Esks Finish First

Vancouver	14	5	8	1	265	345	11
Regina	14	1	12	1	180	345	3

Last night's scores: Saskatchewan 21, Regina 12; Edmonton 34, Vancouver 0.

Next game, Saturday opening game of playoffs.

League play wound up last night in the Lions' favor as Edmonton Eskimos were eliminated from the playoff picture. Lions won 21-12 and Esks finished fourth, one point behind Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Eskimos, once more relying with a ground attack, overcame a 12-9 half time deficit at Edmonton to whip Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 21-12. That gave them a point tie with Saskatchewan Roughriders at the top of the league standings but the Rough Riders finished first on percentage for the championship.

RULING TODAY

Roughriders will probably be awarded a 1-0 win over the Lions. That was the score when fog shrouded the muddy field at Vancouver on Thursday night that it was impossible to play. Now the league has been made up by the game being played next Friday with the game time 8:30 p.m. Roughriders will be given the two points League rules call for a tie game where a game is cancelled because of weather conditions but the team can have no bearing on the final standings.

A decision will be made at a meeting in Winnipeg this morning.

Playoffs start Saturday with Riders having the choice of where the first game of the two game total point series against the Bombers will be played. Bombers wound up third, four points behind Riders and Eskimos.

KNOCKED OFF STAMPS

Out of the playdowns along with the Lions are the league champion Calgary Stampeders who finished two points behind Winnipeg with an 8-8 showing. Lions once won over but the victory put Bombers in the playoffs. It came against Stampeders who would have wound up on a better points for and against record had they not shipped that one time in Vancouver.

At Edmonton the Bombers grabbed the lead as Tom Casey, ex-Lion Eskimo scored converted touchdowns around a field goal by Bob Dean in the second quarter. Just Bob Smith Brother took a pass from Bernie Faloney for a touchdown before the half was over and Dean made it 15 points on a low to bring the score to 12-9.

A long kick by Faloney in the third quarter left Bombers on their one-yard line. Jack Jacobs tried a pass and Earl Lindley intercepted on the 35. And one Payne Mears then threw a scoring pass to Jack Latrell. Dean converted and it was 15-12.

Miles and Glen Lippman carried to the one-yard line from where Faloney plunged over to touch it in the fourth quarter.

Jacobs and Geoff Crain completed 15 of 25 passes for Winnipeg to gain 244 yards in the air as against 152 yards for the Esks on seven completions in 13 tries. Ron Edmonston punted for 200 yards on the turf while Eskimos could eke only 92.

RECORD RUN

Despite their disappointing season, Lions finished in a blaze somewhat foreshadowed if not true of glory. Halfback Len Meltzer gave the 10,575 fans something to talk about in the off season with a 112-yard run down the Vancouver club and the game at 9-0 and had a chance to win all the way.

Meltzer's run created a new league record. It came late in the third quarter after Joe Aguirre was short with a field goal try from 38 yards. Gerry Palmer grabbed the loose ball behind the goal line and pitched out to Meltzer. The fleet half went all the way, eluding two desperation tackles.

At Regina who had earlier kicked a field goal, booted the convert to tie at 9-9. However Riders Ken Carpenter caught his second touchdown pass from Frank Tripucka a few minutes later for the winning score.

SCORING CHAMP

Aguirre kicked both converts and also booted a field goal to win the scoring championship by one point from Tom Muir, Calgary lineman.

Riders who had trouble scoring did far the better in offensive figures. They gained 282 yards in the air and 92 on the ground while Lions could do no better than 70 yards passing and 19 on the ground from scrimmage. In first downs, R was 16-6.

Return of 'Maggie' Brings Back Carefree Days of Coronation Trip

BY TOM TAYLOR
Associate Editor of
The Daily Colonist

Yes, there it was the old cabin. The admiral's cabin. There was the bed that had had me cosily across the Atlantic and back at nights since. Of course. Through the curtain was the sitting room and, the well remembered piano and the easy chair in which I was wont to sit brushing up on my naval lore.

It was like coming home.

Nelson still looked down from his gilt frame once more with a puzzled eye and no wonder. I made him dutiful obeisance.

Nostalgia gripped me in these familiar surroundings, and all the incidents of a memorable Coronation cruise swept back to mind. You will excuse me, therefore, the use of the pronoun "my." For a brief five minutes I was once again an RCN admiral—acting, unofficial, and unpaid.

And heavy it was too.

You will have guessed of course that I was aboard HMCS Magnificent the fine regal ship which came gracefully to port yesterday morning amid the cheers that was her due. Yes I was.

Mind you, I owe her an apology. I was late for our appointment and as you know no man should keep a lady waiting. I hope to make amends before she leaves us again.

You see there was a press boat leaving at 7:30 a.m. to go out and meet her in the Strait. A ghastly hour of a morning hence my arrival at the jetty five minutes after the launch had gone. I was disconsolate.

Until I ran into Captain Bob Welland who led the naval contingent in the Coronation parade and who now commands the Venture school. This young officer has a genius for turning up when I am in distress. Once at Halifax he came to my rescue when stranded and again at Pirbright in Surrey last year.

So it was automatic that he should whisk me off for breakfast and a look at his cadets. Fine upstanding lads they are.

They clustered around us later on the high rocks behind Admiral's House as the Magnificent moved majestically past Duntze Head into Esquimalt Harbor. A grand dame if ever there was one, I thought, my eye lingering fondly as she passed.

Then I raced to the jetty to watch her berth and go aboard to pay my respects.

The first man I ran into was an old Coronation shipmate Lieut.-Cmdr. Bob Herbert of the RCNR and the CBC who joined the Maggie and sailed up here with her from San Diego. He shepherded me up the gangway just like old times.

There were newcomers aboard new to me I mean. That I soon realized. The navy moves its personnel around regularly, a wise training measure, and so there were Pharoahs who knew not Joseph.

Ah! A familiar face. Lieut. Ian Webster, the helicopter pilot. He it was who dropped me at the end of a line onto the Quebec in mid-Atlantic, happily never guessing how scared I was. And another. This time Lieut.-Cmdr. Charles Brooks as spruce-looking as ever.

Soon, in fact, I met half-a-dozen former hosts. I call them that for to each I owe many a kind deed and happy memory. Here are some of them, for the record: Lieut.-Cmdr. Neville MacCready, Lieut. Murray Anderson, Com. Gunner Ross Thompson, Lieut.-Cmdr. Bill Leslie, Lieut.-Cmdr. Edgar Williams, Lieut. Whitley MacNicol, Lieut. Dick Ratcliffe.

And of course the captain, calm, competent, courteous as always Commodore H. G. Rayner who placed his cabin at my disposal for two memorable weeks last year and who again invited me to sample its atmosphere.

Afterwards when I had swapped tales and relived memories we sipped a drink off each other's tummy. I ran up and down ladders just for the pleasure of doing so. I wandered onto a fun session climbed to the flight deck and took it as of yore. I came down then to the quarterdeck from where I once beseech'd it to eat watched the lawn come up over a turbulent steel sea and where a certain ceremony took place that affected me personally. I had a tired but very nostalgic but delightful.

Oh that when I left Maggie again I felt she had forgiven my tardy arrival. Her benign bulk was as inviting as it was the day I first made her acquaintance, a little tremulously I will now admit.

But she is over-all a fine happy ship the Magnificent as every Victorian who goes aboard while she is here will soon find out. Nelson in my old cabin would be pleased with her and her crew, and, I hope extend his benevolence to me also.

Population Is Our Bloodstream

FOR a century to come population is likely to remain the bloodstream of Canada's expanding economy. Of three factors which have had much to do with the progress made throughout the country in the last two decades—abundant natural resources, attracted outside capital and a steady flow of new settlers—it is immigration which is the most readily controlled. Natural resources exist and the sum of them cannot easily be increased. Investment capital goes where opportunity offers under terms it regards as stable. The influx of new settlers, with their families and manifold human needs will likely be on an ascending plane in this country for a long time to come.

Labor makes a good point when it argues against the bringing into Canada of the unskilled overflow of other lands, under a quota system or any other that would have as its result a mass influx of untrained and sometimes unschooled personnel. In the first decades of this century Canada tried that, and while the country was large enough to absorb the inflow some of the sociological shortcomings of the venture have not been successfully worked out yet. The ideal settler at this stage of the nation's development is one who has some skill of the head or the hands which will earn him a livelihood on the basis of his own merits. He will make his own trail, and forge ahead.

Selective immigration, tuned to our own economy and adjusted to the expanding needs of the future, can be one of the strongest growth factors in the nation. Professional and manual skills both are needed to round out the working force that must be assembled if Canada is to keep abreast of her own opportunity. On the land, along the coastlines, in forest, mine, factory and laboratory, this country could use some of the skills of older continents in support of its own. The difficult question is not the desirability of continued influx of new citizens, but their selection and the rate of influx. It should not be too hard to adjust incoming quotas in such as fashion as to meet the needs and avoid the pitfalls.

Back of the issue, and it is perhaps one of the most important with respect to Canada's own future, are the requirements of a growing economy. This nation has begun to hit its stride. If the aims of full employment and a reasonable standard of living are studied they will be found to rest upon the progressive use, and not the curtailment, of Canada's natural resources. This would be no time for the nation to pull down the blinds, put up the shutters and advertise to the world that it is closed to new business. We have a vast, thinly peopled territory in a world that is land-hungry. The logical course is to invite new settlers, but to pick them with care.

Lower Infant Death Rate

INFANT mortality statistics are widely regarded as a reliable indicator of the general state of health of a community, and it is pleasing to note, therefore, that by that measurement British Columbia is the healthiest province in Canada. Dominion Bureau of Statistics records for 1953 show this province's infant mortality rate as 27 per 1,000 births, which compares favorably with the Canadian average of 35 per 1,000. In Ontario and Prince Edward Island the rate was 28 per 1,000, while at the other end of the scale were Quebec and New Brunswick with 45, and Newfoundland with a high of 47.

Also encouraging is the bureau's report that last year the Canadian average reached a record low figure. Despite that, however, the Canadian rate remains relatively high in comparison with other countries enjoying comparable advantages in living conditions and availability of health services. Against this Dominion's infant mortality rate of 35 per 1,000 last year, the rate in the United Kingdom was 28.6, in the United States 28.5, while in the Southern Hemisphere it dropped to 23.8 in Australia and 21.8 in New Zealand.

New Zealand's rate always has been consistently low. While that dominion's climate, absence of overcrowding and abundance of nutritious food is conducive to good health, New Zealand's consistently low infant and maternal mortality rates are mainly due to the magnificent achievements of the late Sir Truby King, who devoted his life to the improvement of pre- and post-natal care. New Zealand's Karitane hospitals are a model for the world.

Obviously this province and Canada can do better. Nowhere in British Columbia and in few places in the Dominion are there sub-standard living conditions comparable to those prevailing in some parts of other countries where the infant death rate is much lower than Canada's. It is difficult to understand why this country with all its advantages should remain so far behind other western countries, including most of the European nations, in this vital branch of welfare.

Back in the News

A REPORT from Rome that a public funeral may be held for Benito Mussolini is a reminder that the two evil geniuses of the last world war seldom now find a place in the news. Not that either of their memories is one to be kept green, except perhaps as a warning to other potential dictators, but since they set the world afire it is surprising their names should have followed their remains so quickly into oblivion. The reason, of course, is the rampant spirit of another oligarchy to disturb the peace of the world and keep it on edge, that of Soviet Russia.

Mussolini, giving him whatever is his due, was less disastrous in his impact on events than Hitler. He was specifically an example of the adage that unlimited power corrupts its possessor. To begin with he restored order in Italy and gave it stability; some responsible contemporaries of other nations admired his capacities, regarding his as a political leader of worth and good fortune. Had he managed to keep his ego and his rapacity in check he might have been a saviour of Italy instead of bringing ruin upon it. But he chose to become the "jackal" of Churchillian scorn and his end was as sordid as that of his partner Hitler.

Unlike Hitler, apparently, whose body was presumed burned and who was recently proclaimed officially dead, Mussolini's remains have been carefully guarded. They disappeared after a mob had hanged him in public, but seemingly have been under the care of the Italian government. Now it is said they will be officially buried. This would seem to indicate that anti-Fascist sentiment in Italy is quieted, unless it is that the proposed funeral is in some way planned to offset the strong Communist influence in that country. It may suit the purpose to build up his memory, villain though he may be regarded elsewhere. Other evil men have been given respectable burial, however, so perhaps this should not be denied to Mussolini.

Allies Take Gamble Again

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

ONCE again the Allies have taken a big gamble on Germany.

Unless the Russians manage to upset the applecart—and they're trying hard, though without much immediate chance of success—the 15-nation agreements signed during the week end at Paris mean:

West Germany becomes an almost free and not-quite sovereign nation less than 10 years after all Germany was at war with both Russia and the West, then allies.

West Germany—the stronger half of the divided country—comes into the Western defense setup, and will supply 12 divisions.

The Allies occupation of West Germany ends—as such. This doesn't mean British, American and French troops will go home. It means they'll stay in Germany, but with German consent.

All this is just what the United States wanted at this stage—and a lot more than it thought it would get only a couple of months ago, when the more ambitious European Defense Community fell apart before it got started.

The Paris arrangement is just about what the Germans wanted, too. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was so eager for it, in fact, that he gave into the French on the Saar question to get their agreement on the Paris pacts.

In short, almost everybody is happy. But not quite everybody. For instance:

The Russians. They're beating drums louder than ever for a Big Four conference on "unifying East and West Germany. That would mean, the way they want it, a helpless Germany ripe for Russian plucking. The Paris agreements appear to be a safeguard against that.

Some of Adenauer's Germans, who think he went too far in his Saar concessions.

A number of people, and not only French people, who wonder just how safe it is to let Germany rearm even under the limitations agreed upon at Paris.

This is a gamble the Allies took once before, and tragically lost—in the war of 1939-45.

Putting guns in the hands of the Germans again is a calculated risk, one that most political leaders agree should be taken.

The reasoning is obvious:

Russia is the real threat. West German's present leaders know that. Hence they lined up in the West's system of defense. France's present leaders know it, too. Hence they agreed—at a price—to let Germany join up.

IT is a far cry backwards from the arrival of the Magnificent yesterday with her planes and guns to the same day at Balaclava 100 years ago. Planes are vital to the Maggie, and guns were equally vital in the Crimea. Perhaps more so.

They supplied some of Tennyson's "reason why".

A century ago immense value was attached to them as trophies of war. Artillery was scarce and captured guns were the visible signs of victory. One has to remember this.

Thus the initial urge to the Light Brigade's incredible charge.

The New York Times Magazine recalls the story of Balaclava, gleaned from the first-hand dispatches of William Howard Russell, father of all war correspondents, and later research. It makes fascinating reading.

The charge of the Light Brigade was not THE battle of Balaclava; it was a fatal climax. Earlier on one body of Russian cavalry had broken on the thin red Highland line—in Russel's dispatch his original phrase was "thin red streak"—and the Heavy Brigade had routed the main force.

And here was the genesis of the Six Hundred's glory. In retiring down the valley the Russians withdrew their guns, precious spoils of war—unmolested. Lord Cardigan, the Light Brigade commander, took no pursuing action because, he said afterwards, he had no orders.

Enter Captain Nolan, an impetuous, brilliant Italian-Irish light horseman. All day long he had fumed because the light cavalry was unemployed; and here in front of his eyes the Russians were being allowed to save their guns unharmed. It was an insult to the Light Brigade.

* * *

His chance came when a message was sent by Lord Raglan, the commander-in-chief, to the cavalry commander, Lord Lucan, instructing him to prevent the enemy taking away the guns. Raglan meant guns in the hill redoubts vacated by his Turkish allies and still held by the Russians, not the rescued guns now set up impregnably at the far end of the valley.

But the situation was complicated by human factors.

Nolan was on bad terms with both Lucan and Cardigan. These two officers were brothers-in-law; Lucan had separated from Cardigan's sister, and they hated each other for years. Lucan was also furious with Lord Raglan, whom he accused of favoring Cardigan. Not one of these men, the New York Times Magazine writer says, could have a rational discussion with the other.

To Nolan there was only one set of guns, those allowed to be dragged away. He snatched the order and himself conveyed it furiously to Lord Lucan. The latter demurred, finding the order ambiguous. "What guns, Sir?" By mistake or by intention, no one knows for sure, Nolan then replied insolently, pointing to the end of the valley: "There, my lord, is your enemy; there are your guns."

Lucan reluctantly gave the order to Cardigan to advance. That noble earl, though he saw instantly the terrible odds—it was a maxim of war that cavalry should not carry guns without close infantry support—disdained to question his despised brother-in-law. The Light Brigade swept into the charge.

Six hundred and seven strong they thundered down the valley, into, through, and back from the Russians guns. One hundred and ninety-eight returned. Nolan was killed in the first few pulsing moments, his secret with him.

A strange tragic story, one that lives not because of a blunder but for the courage of men who rode to certain death in perfect order.

Reports from Ottawa

YOUNG BILL ROWE, who at 30 has taken on the heavy responsibilities of national director of the Conservative Party, is long on loyalty to George Drew but short on practical political experience.

Until a couple of years ago he'd had little more than a casual interest in politics, despite his politician parent. He is the elder son of Hon. W. Earl Rowe, the Conservative MP for Dufferin-Simcoe, Ont., and minister without portfolio in the last days of the Bennett government.

Young Rowe took an active part in the Tory build-up for the 1953 elections because, as he puts it, "there are many things you can think of that might be remedied" if the Conservatives were to form a government. So for 14 months prior to the last election he toured the country as a special emissary of Leader Drew, lining up candidates, arranging for visits of touring party bigwigs, and reporting back to Drew on what he saw and heard.

When the roof fell on the party's election hopes, Rowe went back to farming (Shorthorns and race horses) on his 240 acres at Newton Robinson, Ont., a half mile from his father's bg farm.

* * *

The Conservatives had been without a national director, or full-time chief administrative officer, since Dick Bell quit after the 1949 elections. W. H. "Cappy" Kidd was named national secretary a year later and did a fill-in job, but he too quit after the 1953 elections.

Following George Hees' election as president of the National Progressive Conservative Association last March—which did not please Drew—the party leader told the party president how organizational responsibilities would be split.

Drew would be responsible, among other things, for the national headquarters here, for head office administration and operation. Hees would handle the hustings. His main job would be to travel around the country, trying to instill new life into moribund local organizations. One result is that it was Drew, not Hees, who selected and appointed the new national director.

* * *

The appointment of Bill Rowe, for all his youth and enthusiasm, is actually a strengthening of the party's Old Guard which Hees bucked last spring. The older politicians, among whom Earl Rowe is a leading figure, seek to retain control of the party. Their dynasty is threatened by the progressive ideas of George Heees, John Diefenbaker and others who lack the bred-in-the-bone rigidity of old-line Conservatism.

Young Rowe's appointment at this time, just before the November 8 by-elections, may mean that Drew would feel somewhat safer with his own man as head of the working organization. If the by-elections turn out badly for the Tories there could be increased discontent with Drew's leadership.

I asked Rowe what he thought of Hees' "ginger" tactics for getting Tories elected, such as early nomination of candidates, and heavy emphasis on doorbell ringing to make the candidates known.

"The sooner we can have candidates in the field, whether they're successful or not, they'll make an impression," he said. "I agree with Mr. Drew in that."

OF GREGORY CLARK

MOST of our liturgical religious music and a great many of our hymns were written many years ago when the spirit of religion, as uttered from the pulpit and expressed in the churches' activity, was far different from that of today. Those of us who have been brought up in contact with religion are accustomed to the music, and feel no incongruity in it. But as statistics show, a very considerable population has drifted away from the churches, and these must include many who are repelled by the gloomy and intimidating sound of religious music as it is so often presented, even in churches whose spirit and message is anything but gloomy or intimidating.

A man of my acquaintance has recently gone through a very tragic experience, and in an effort to find peace of mind, he has tried his best to seek religious consolation. He has been one of those who never attached himself to any church.

"The first church I tried," he told me "was one of the old religious sects with a liturgical service. It was so gloomy, the music was so doleful, I couldn't get out fast enough. It was as if they were trying to scare me to death. I then went to the other extreme and attended one of the new sects. They whooped it up, to be sure, but they were so woebegone in the hymn tunes they sang and the way they sang them that I felt on edge all through the service, despite the fact that the sermon preached was wonderfully helpful to me, full of promise and cheer and shrewd understanding. Yet they spoiled it all by the hymn they closed with, again a grievous, melancholy dirge in utter contradiction of the spirit of the sermon.

"Modern religion is full of hope and cheer. But you would never guess it from the music. Is there some sentimental reason why those sad old tunes have to be preserved? How far back do they go?"

Not far enough to be holy writ, anyway.

A Korean War veteran, now back to civilian life, still remembers the day he was inducted into the army. After his physical, he was directed to a desk behind which sat a sergeant with a rubber stamp. The sergeant looked up and asked him, "Did you go to grammar school?"

"Yes, sir," said the draftee proudly. "I went through grammar school and high school and completed three years of graduate studies at UCLA, and acquired my last two degrees at Columbia."

The sergeant nodded, picked up the rubber stamp, and slapped it on the questionnaire. One word appeared there: "Literate".

On the Record

Not by Law

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE opening of the school year has raised very serious problems for school boards, teachers, parents and students in those part of the United States affected by the supreme court's decision declaring race segregation to be unconstitutional.

This columnist thought the supreme court decision but another example of the folly of idealistic zeal over-reaching its aim. The aim of every measure affecting the relationship between the races in America must, with the welfare of each in mind, be to alleviate the tensions between them and to promote equal justice in peace.

But long-ingrained traditions and prejudices cannot be wiped out by judicial decrees. No court can legislate brotherly love. And any attempt to enforce inter-racial associations more intimate than a majority of any community desires will not alleviate but exacerbate racial tensions. The sufferers will be the negroes, and years of steady progress in negro advancement can be undone.

What 2,000 years of Christian teachings have been unable to overcome and what the saintly example of Gandhi was unable to accomplish in India cannot be brought about by a judicial ruling. Great problems can never be so solved, in any case. One must live with them, suppressing malice and cultivating charity—in the great loving meaning of that word—and gradually the problems, though never "solved" short of the millenium, cease to be so acute as to become a menace to domestic peace.

The "rabble rouser," screaming white supremacy, and the lynchers taking the law into their own hands have been yielding influence steadily in the South, even over those whom "enlightened" Northerners (of course, with "prejudices") often call contemptuously "poor white trash".

The hillbos are yielding to nobler and more responsible leadership. It is precisely these who are in despair lest by making haste in this matter the rabble rouser is given a new platform. Nothing is more likely to furnish him a rostrum for arousing emotionalism than enforced associations. Already a dubious character, Bryant W. Bowles, has formed the "National Association for the Advancement of White People," which spearheaded the demonstrations in Delaware.

We hope that the supreme court, and every American citizen with sense in his head and charity and compassion in his heart, especially for the negroes, will counsel moderation and gradualism, over-riding the hasty and all too often self-righteous, who want "to bring the law" against all who disagree with them, no matter what the consequences.

With the Classics

When I have fears that I cease to be
Before my pen has glean'd my teeming brain,
Before high-piled books, in charact'ry,
Hold like rich garners the full-ripen'd grain;
When I behold, upon the night's starr'd face,
Huge cloudy symbols of a high romance,
And feel that I may never live to trace
Their shadows, with the magic hand of chance;
And when I feel, fair creature of an hour!
That I shall never look upon thee more,
Never have relish in the faery power
Of unreflecting love;—then on the shore
Of the wide world I stand alone, and think,
Till Love and Fame to nothingness do sink.

Fine Work By Musicians

BY BRUCE LOWTHER

Two members of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra stepped out of the ranks to become soloists at concerts in the Royal Theatre Sunday and Monday, but the real "stars" were conductor Hans Gruber and the orchestra itself.

The orchestra has seldom sounded better in recent years, and as a result, overshadowed the excellent work of violinist Corol McCartney and principal horn player Hans Stelzner.

The audience was composed of 300 persons Sunday and 1,100 more Monday—a packed house between the two.

FINEST WORK

Finest work was held until the last when the orchestra concluded the concerts, second pair of the season, with Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, not the most difficult item in any repertoire but played here as well as it could be done anywhere.

Mr. Gruber's friendly mastery of the orchestra was made quite clear by the attack on the symphony, which is a happy but tricky thing.

The music flew by, even though it was difficult in spots, the musicians displaying a great amount of assurance, reflecting the conductor's control.

The two soloists had completely different works to handle—the romantic Symphonie Espagnole of Lalo and the slower Concerto for Horn and Orchestra of Mozart.

Mrs. McCartney received an ovation for the way she played the violin "concerto," one of the most demanding works ever written for the violin.

PERFECT BALANCE

The rich notes of the slower sections were a perfect balance for the crisp cascades of high notes which tax the violinist so often in the work, and Mrs. McCartney's best asset was her assured manner, while the orchestra provided a perfect background.

One of the few concertos for horn received virtually flawless handling from Mr. Stelzner, whose ability to strike a note full was much appreciated, and here again, the orchestra's background was a masterpiece.

Mr. Stelzner led the horns in a brief encore, a short hunting scene from "Der Frieschutz," in which the horns told of the hunt, including an epilogue from offstage.

Last Steam Train Starts Vancouver-Montreal Run

VANCOUVER (CP)—A landmark in Canadian railroading was reached Monday when the CPR dispatched the last steam engine on its Vancouver-Montreal run.

Big diesels will take over the entire run now, ending an era of 67 years.

The first steam engine to make the transcontinental crossing from Montreal to Vancouver arrived here May 23, 1887.

A CPR spokesman said diesels will also supplant the "iron horses" on the Vancouver-Toronto run in six weeks.

Ford Strikers Supported

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Promises of financial and moral support for striking Ford of Canada workers were voiced Monday night at a meeting of AFL-TLC and CIO-CCL unions from this area.

Pledges came from the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO), the International Teamsters Union (AFL), the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) and the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (CIO).

About 1,500 persons attended the meeting, addressed by labor leaders representing the various unions.

Tom Rees, president of the Windsor Labor Council (CIO-CCL), said the strike at the two Ford plants, here and at Oakville, near Toronto, brought to a head the concerted effort on the part of the Canadian Manufacturers Association to hold the line on wages and fringe benefits.

He said the "fight of the Ford workers has become a fight of all workers everywhere."

Opinion of Residents Sought On Little League Baseball

Residents of the Esquimalt and Victoria West districts have been asked to show that they favor Little League baseball for their areas next year.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce says a large crowd at a meeting at 7.30 p.m. Friday in the Fraser Street Hall will allow formation of a league to begin play next summer, but a poor turnout will make such action extremely doubtful.

Games will be played at Bullen Park.

A film on the organization of a Little League will be shown and Jaycees officials will outline plans for the new league.

The officials, who say there are 400 youngsters between the ages of 9 and 12 in the two districts, have asked parents not to take children to the meeting. The hall is available only until 9 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Jaycees' youth development committee has denied a statement that the city Little League baseball ended the summer with a deficit.

There was a surplus of $354.74 in the sponsor's account, which may allow a reduction to $100 in the sponsorship charge next year, and a final surplus of $282.16 was reached after operating expenses were deducted.

Miss Verna Turner, child studies supervisor for Victoria schools, spoke about her work at the meeting of Oak Bay High PTA recently. A question period followed the address.

The mission station of Kente was established by the French near Trenton, Ont., in 1668.

BOING!

MODERN ALUMINUM alloys seem tough enough to take almost anything. For instance, one manufacturer uses aluminum for those little electrically driven cars the kids love to climb into at carnivals and fairs. The idea is to whirl around at high speed exchanging spine-shattering bumps with other "motorists". They actually stand up under this treatment (the cars, we mean). Our own Alcan researchers are constantly developing and testing new applications, better products, improved production techniques. There's always something new in aluminum! With G. E. Mortimore

Big winner of Daily Colonist fishing derby held at Brentwood Sunday was G. E. "All Aboard" Mortimore, whose 7¼-pounder caught on bucktail fly won him a handsome fishing rod. Every angler in the derby took fish and several secured limit catches.

Old Pipe Organ Plays Recital

The oldest pipe organ in British Columbia, built in 1813, was played at a special recital Sunday in the Church of Our Lord, 626 Blanshard Street, to mark the 80th anniversary of the day it was given to the church by Sir James Douglas.

J. Ingram Smith, an employee at City Hall who is organist at the church, said the special service was attended by "the largest crowd we have ever had."

Minister was Rev. Dr. J. G. Brown, and John Bray, Victoria baritone, sang several selections.

The organ was built in Boston, England, in 1813, and was shipped to the United States in 1870, after which it received some repairs.

In 1874, it was shipped out of San Francisco, but the vessel carrying the organ was shipwrecked and Sir James Douglas salvaged the organ, presenting it to the church, which he attended until his death in 1877.

The late Chandas Dix of Vancouver restored and modernized the organ approximately 20 years ago, adding new pipes, but the original pipes were still in use Sunday.

Sailors Buy Bonds

Royal Canadian Navy personnel on the Pacific Coast has subscribed for $459,450 worth of ninth series Canada Savings Bonds, topping last year's final total of $427,000.

More than 600 officers and men of HMCS Magnificent have subscribed for $133,000.

The general payroll deduction picture in B.C. shows 18,845 people have signed for $4,345,450, about one-third of last year's record sales.

Ship Firms Grant Boost In Wages

A five-cent-an-hour wage increase in a two-year contract has been signed by nine Lower Mainland shipbuilding firms and the Shipwrights, Joiners and Caulkers' Union (CCL).

The agreement calls for three cents an hour increase for the first year and two cents an hour for the second. The new scale will range from $1.65 for laborers to $2 an hour for mechanics, as of November 1, 1955.

The union is continuing negotiations with four steel shipyards in Victoria and Vancouver.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Charges of theft against Edward Beaver and Colin Horton were dismissed in provincial court yesterday by Magistrate R. Haig-Brown for lack of evidence.

The charge involved dissappearance of about $55 from Lourdes Hospital here in late September.

Horton also won dismissal on a charge of breaking and entering a garage September 29.

Garden Notes

Leaf-Burners! Try This Test

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

If you are one of those stubborn gardeners who still persist in raking up the fallen leaves and making a bonfire out of them, I suggest that you try the following little experiment:

Dig a trench across a section of your vegetable garden, or across one of the beds out front where you set out bedding plants in the spring. Make the trench as wide as the blade of your shovel, and a good 12 to 14 inches deep. Shovel the "crumb" out of the bottom, then pack it full of fallen tree leaves. Get into the trench and tread them down, adding more leaves as you work, until it is filled to within four inches of the top with compressed leaves.

Give the leaves a heavy sprinkling with fertilizer — almost any kind will serve — using about a cupful to the running yard of trench. Then fill in loosely with soil, and mark the position of the trench carefully with stakes.

If the vegetables or plants you grow on the site of the trench next year aren't bigger, stronger and healthier than those grown elsewhere in the garden, I'll eat my shirt. With garlic sauce. And I hate garlic.

* * *

For several years now my family has been experimenting to secure something a little different for the salad bowl.

Along about this time of the year, we take all our left-over seeds of cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, spinach, and mix them together thoroughly, and sow the mixture in seed flats filled with rich, sandy loam. These germinate and grow very quickly in an unheated greenhouse, cold-frame, or even an enclosed sun porch.

REFRESHING CHANGE

When the seedlings are about two inches high, we cut them off close to the soil with a pair of scissors, wash and drain the greens, and dump them in the salad bowl with a little French dressing. The mixture tastes refreshingly different from the usual lettuce or endive salads. Flavors can be varied by including onion, leek, or radish seed in the mixture, but as onions and leeks ar slower in germinating, these seeds should be sown about 10 days ahead of the rest of the greens.

Don't try to get a second crop from the same sowing. It doesn't work.

Extensive Refit Completed, Athabaskan Rejoins Fleet

HMCS Athabaskan rejoined the fleet of the Pacific Command yesterday following a commissioning ceremony at HMC Dockyard.

She has just completed an extensvie refit and modernization of armament program to better equip her as an integral part of Canada's anti-submarine navy.

Rear Admiral J. C. Hibbard spoke of the place of the navy in Canada's rapid growth during a short address.

SEA POWER NEEDED

"The navy is not just a necessary evil," he said. "Our livelihood depends on overseas markets and we Canadians must realize the importance of sea power.

"It is vital to Canada and her economy and it is your job," he told the members of the ship's company and a small number of invited guests.

Loyalty, cheerfulness and personal efforts are the important things, the admiral said. "An ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness," he stated.

"I am a sentimental sort of bloke. It always brings quite a lump to my throat any time I see men taking on a new ship," he said.

Lieut.-Cmdr. C. E. Richardson, new commanding officer of the Athabaskan, said: "The thrill of joining a new ship can never be lightly dismissed. We have been given a fine ship with a proud record, second to none.

"New equipment should make her an even more formidable fighting ship than she has been in the past."

Chaplain (P) H. R. Pike, CD, RCN, gave the benediction.

Pension Boost Sought by CCF

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!
Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"
Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.
1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

Secret of the GOLDFISH BOWL

(Copyright, 1954, William P. McGivern. Illustrations copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

BY WILLIAM P. McGIVERN

"What's the meaning of this?" he snarled. "Do you incompetent idiots realize you might have signed a girl's death warrant by jerking me in here?"

"Please, Mr. O'Neil," the Commissioner said mildly. "What we did was necessary. This is a military intelligence agent. We have confirmed his credentials. He wants to talk to you without disclosing his identity further."

The small gray-haired man behind the desk coughed gently and glanced up. Geoffery found himself looking into the clearest, most quietly commanding blue eyes he had ever seen.

Mr. O'Neil," the G-2 officer said quietly. "I deeply regret that I have inconvenienced you by having brought you here. However, the matter is so extremely urgent that I considered any means justifiable. I will be as brief as possible. In the past twenty-four hours a goldfish bowl containing, I believe, three ordinary carp has been left in your possession."

"That's right," Geoff snapped. "So?"

"So," the G-2 man said quietly, "it is imperative that I know the present whereabouts of that goldfish bowl. Can you tell me, Mr. O'Neil, where it is? By the way, my name is Winston."

Geoff nodded curtly. "It's in a girl's apartment, twenty minutes from here."

In terse sentences he told the G-2 man of everything he knew, and what his reason had been in leaving the bowl in that apartment.

When he finished the G-2 man was on his feet, his features drawn anxiously. He snapped, "You must phone her. Tell her to leave her apartment immediately."

There was no mistaking the urgency in his voice.

Grim-lipped, Geoff grabbed a phone from the Commissioner's desk.

His hands trembled with relief an instant later as Frances' clear unhurried voice came over the wire.

"Hello?"

"Fran," Geoff said tensely, "there's no time to lose. This is O'Neil. You've got to get out of your apartment."

"But—?"

"Please don't argue, honey. Our plan slipped. Now put the phone down and go down to the lobby or into the street, do you understand? I'll be there as soon as I possibly can."

"All right, if you say so. But there's something I have to tell you about those funny fish of mine. I—"

Her voice broke off suddenly in a strangled, choking sob.

"Don't—"

"Fran!" Geoff yelled. "Fran! What happened?"

He jiggled the receiver frantically, but the line was dead. For an instant he stood beside the desk, too stunned to move.

Winston gripped his arm firmly. "Come," he said, and together they hurried out.

To Be Continued.

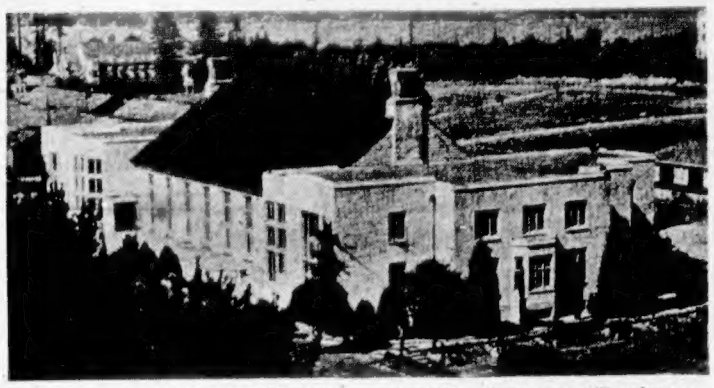
Fire Rages in UBC Hall



Centre section of Brock Hall, University of British Columbia student union building, was destroyed by fire last night. Cause was still unknown at press time.

Vast Project Takes Step

Initial step in the vast hydro-electric and metallurgical development planned by Frobisher-Ventures in B.C.'s northland was made yesterday.

Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers said that the company had filed its application for water rights with the B.C. government water recorder in the Atlin district. All the areas under consideration have been posted.

"Frobisher is proceeding according to plan," Mr. Sommers said.

Northwest Power Industries Ltd., the company incorporated by Frobisher-Ventures for the project, has been already granted a preliminary permit for exploration work in the Yukon basin. The huge project, embodying a $270,000,000 hydro and smelter development, may eventually reach $700,000,000 if carried to its envisioned capacity.

Sweep Prize Will Start Home

Making plans to sink $1,075 into a new home are Mrs. William C. (Lenora) McQuillin, 1175 Oscar Street, and her seven-year-old son John who are looking over a letter notifying Mrs. McQuillin she has drawn an Irish sweep ticket on a horse in the Cambridgeshire tomorrow. But the horse, Cockrullah, will not start; so the city woman has no chance for the top prize of $140,000. (See Page 6.)

Early Action

OTTAWA—Increased unemployment-insurance benefits for jobless workers and lower taxes for business and industry may be the federal government's answer to the unemployment problem.

There are indications that changes in the Unemployment Insurance Act, aimed mainly at protecting out-of-work Canadians through the winter months, will be presented to parliament when it sits early in the new year.

And Finance Minister Harris is said to be considering tax reductions for his 1955-56 budget even though these would result in a large deficit.

The tax cuts would be directed toward business and industry, rather than to the individual taxpayer, as a means of encouraging greater economic activity and employment to give the whole country a shot in the arm.

A deficit—Canada's first since 1945-46—is shaping up for the current year. Although the government is concerned, it reportedly feels that if the deficit is less than $100,000,000 it will have no serious impact on the Canadian economy.

SOP UP SURPLUS

In the next budget, defense spending may be cut from its present $2,000,000,000 and the public works department may get more money for an expanded work program which would sop up some of the labor surplus.

For the unemployed, insurance benefits may be stretched in two ways. The minimum period in which unemployed persons may draw benefits may be extended to 20 weeks, to cover the low-employment winter season.

For workers in higher pay brackets, benefit payments may be increased from the present maximum of $24 a week for those with dependents, $17.10 for single men.

Experts now are studying the $880,000,000 unemployment insurance fund to determine whether increased payments will be necessary to cover these increased benefits.

Firemen Flee Crashing Roof

UBC's Brock Hall Ripped by Flames

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four firemen raced to safety across a collapsing roof Monday night while battling a spectacular two-hour fire in Brock Hall, the University of British Columbia's student union building.

The firemen were standing on the east roof of the two-story building when the roof beams began to give way. They abandoned their hoses and reached safety before the roof collapsed.

There was no immediate estimate of damage, but it was believed thousands of dollars worth of equipment stored in the building was ruined.

CENTRE DESTROYED

The centre of the building was destroyed by the fire which originated in a committee room on the second floor. Cause was not immediately determined.

No one was seriously injured, but one fireman was treated after being overcome by smoke.

Hundreds of students assisted campus and metropolitan firemen in fighting the fire, which broke out at 6 p.m.

The blaze was thought to be under control within an hour, but it flared up again at about 7 p.m. and five pieces of equipment from the Vancouver fire department were sent to the aid of the university's two machines.

A number of valuable paintings and musical instruments were stored in the building, used by various student organizations for meetings and dances.

Returning After 15 Years

QUEEN MOTHER ELIZABETH

Starting North American Visit

Queen Mother Arrives Today

NEW YORK (CP) — Fifteen eventful years since she first set foot in North America, Queen Mother Elizabeth lands today for a brief but busy visit to the United States and Canada.

This time the visit is considered a private rather than a state affair.

The invitation to visit the U.S. was extended by Columbia University, celebrating the 200th anniversary of the granting of its charter by King George II.

She will receive an honorary degree at a special convocation Sunday.

The Queen Mother will spend nine days in New York and six in and near Washington. She will go to Ottawa November 12, and will return to New York to embark for home November 18.

For the voyage to North America the Queen Mother chose the liner Queen Elizabeth, named after her. It is due to dock in New York at 4.45 p.m. today.

The Queen Mother will be greeted by representatives of President Eisenhower, the mayor of New York and Commonwealth governments represented here.

She will stay in New York at the home of Sir Pierson Dixon, Britain's permanent UN delegatee.

Wednesday morning she will go to Manhattan for a Canadian Club luncheon.

Space Travel Looms

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The United States can have a fully-manned space station circling the earth in 10 to 15 years, if it is willing to go all out on the project, a top U.S. army scientist said here yesterday.

But, he said, "all-out" means to shoot the works as the government did with the development of the atomic bomb.

The scientist, Dr. Wernher von Braun, pioneer expert in German and American guided missiles, discussed the fascinating possibilities of space travel in a press conference which opened to the wailing of the city's air-raid sirens sounding their weekly test.

"It's all a matter of how hard we push it," Von Braun said. "If we have the backing the Manhattan project had, it would be only a matter of a few years."

Once the space station is established as a stepping stone, he asserted, man could land on the moon in 15 to 20 years' time.

DESIGNED V2'S

Dr. von Braun, developer of the U.S. army's new long-range Redstone guided missile, was the designer of the German V2 rockets which battered English cities near the end of the Second World War.

The 42-year-old scientist was technical director of the V2 rocket program at Peenemunde, Germany. When the war was over, Von Braun gathered about 130 leading German rocket experts and fled to the Western zone.

Von Braun said he and his fellow scientists came to America and many of them are on his staff at the Redstone Arsenal, Ala., where he is chief of guided missile development for army ordnance corps.

Asked about the American and Russian scramble for German scientists, the 42-year-old expert said the Russians concentrated on finding production people, "people who knew how to make the V2's — the Russians got the skill but the brains came over to America."

Von Braun explained that there is "hardly any mystery in the development of rockets." He said "any engineer with a bachelor's degree" can follow the development of rocket weapons and can explore space-flight possibilities.

Below 3,000,000

Fewer Lack Jobs Says Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Monday night that unemployment has dropped to 2,700,000—the first time it has gone below the 3,000,000 mark this year.

He interrupted the reading of a prepared speech on economic conditions — he called this "the most prosperous peacetime year in history"—to read what he described as the latest government figures on employment.

The jobless total this month, he said, has dropped by 400,000 from 3,100,000 to 2,700,000.

Returning to his prepared manuscript, the president said unemployment in some areas—which has brought Democratic criticism in the congressional campaign—"is a matter of deep concern to all of us."

In a nationwide television-radio address, which the White House had billed as "non-political," the president painted a rosy picture of the general economic situation and predicted better times ahead.

"Certainly," he said, "we now know that one fear—the fear of a paralyzing depression—can be safely laid away.

"In two years, we have again demonstrated that America's prosperity does not necessarily depend on war's sacrifices.

"Without war, our economy is working at near-record levels. More than 62,000,000 people have jobs. The number is increasing steadily."

"Our people have more personal income after taxes than ever before. Our national production surpasses even the war peak of 1944."

Cabinet Meets Again

Manchester Joins Paralyzed Ports

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill called a special cabinet meeting Monday night to discuss Britain's paralyzing dock strike as the mammoth stoppage gripped an eighth major port.

The cabinet meeting ended with the government still hopeful a strike settlement can be reached without the use of troops to shift stalled cargoes, although developments Monday gave little sign of an early peace.

Despite back-to-work appeals from moderate labor union chiefs, more than 500 dockers walked out in Manchester Monday, keeping the total strike army at more than 43,000.

Meanwhile, strike leaders served notice they intend to spread the strike to Scotland. Dick Barrett, secretary of the National Amalgamated Stevedores' and Dockers' Union, which started the strike, left Monday night for Glasgow to recruit support.

Moderate labor union chiefs were only partly successful Monday in a new drive to get men back to work. They managed to persuade about 1,000 strikers in London, Liverpool and Hull to return, but this total was largely balanced by the Manchester walkout.

The number of vessels affected by the stoppage rose Monday to the peak figure of 341.

Export and import cargoes worth about $350,000,000 are held up in the eight ports now affected, and two-thirds of Britain's seaborne trade is at a standstill.

In addition, 8,000 dock repair workers are striking in London in a separate dispute, tying up another 100 ships.

The three-man government court of inquiry into the strike continued its deliberations in private Monday. It may issue its findings, or an interim report, this week.

Spoils Own Trade

EDMONTON (CP) — Thomas Connelly's wondering whether he's in the right business.

Monday, he grabbed a man about to make a suicide jump from a bridge spanning the North Saskatchewan River here. Last January, he did the same thing at another Edmonton bridge.

Connelly is an undertaker.

Vice Crusader Montreal Mayor

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Drapeau, 38-year-old vice-busting lawyer, Monday night was elected mayor of Montreal, a cosmopolitan city that gained an international reputation for its gay night life and other forms of entertainment.

Drapeau, whose main campaign promise was to clean up the city, was elected to succeed popular Camillien Houde, retiring because of ill health after serving as mayor for 18 years.

Making his first bid for municipal office, Drapeau took the lead early in the race over eight opponents and moved on to a landslide victory.

VIOLENCE FLARES

In the election, marked by violence and a volley of revolver shots, it appeared that Drapeau would carry into office with him many of the councillor-candidates who ran with him on the Civic Action League ticket.

The league sponsored 34 candidates for 66 council seats being contested. One of the first councillors declared elected was Drapeau's father, Joseph E. Drapeau, in a northeast-end district.

Drapeau claimed victory early on the basis of returns reaching him from his party workers.

The voting was marked by violence punctured by a volley of revolver shots.

The violence resulted in minor injuries to two persons, including a constable who was struck on the head by a telephone torn from a desk in an election committee room. One man, identified only as a wrestler, was arrested for allegedly trying to "rough-up" a candidate.

Vishinsky Assails West German Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia's Andrei Vishinsky attacked the recent London and Paris agreements on West Germany Monday as increasing instead of lessening international tension.

"Can it be suggested that the London and Paris agreements for the restoration of the German Wehrmacht—for the setting up of an army of 500,000 under the command of Hitlerite generals bent on revenge—can be reconciled with the disarmament task over which we are laboring here?"

Vishinsky attacked the agreement near the end of a 2½-hour speech on disarmament in the UN's political committee.

"I say you can't have new pacts which make for aggression while you are supposedly seeking disarmament here."

At the same time, Vishinsky said Russia and the West had come closer together on the disarmament problem.

"The Soviet Union, having for its part taken steps to bring our positions closer together, expects that corresponding steps will be taken by the Western powers."

Unknown Slaying Disclosed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A surprise admission by a prisoner in the B.C. penitentiary was reported Monday to have disclosed a murder at Kamloops 10 years ago which RCMP did not know had taken place.

Details of the slaying were closely guarded by police order. The victim was thought at the time to have simply left the district.

Last week a new lead was found by Kamloops RCMP which changed the picture. A sergeant was sent to the penitentiary to interview a man imprisoned on another charge.

New Golf Column Slated for Colonist

Harry Young, who is well known to readers of The Daily Colonist as financial and business editor of this paper, starts another column this week.

To be called "At The 19th," the column will appear each Wednesday.

Harry is not breaking new ground. Before he came to Canada six years ago, he was sports editor of The Evening Citizen in Glasgow.

He gave up the idea of qualifying for a similar job in Canada after watching box lacrosse, Canadian football, baseball and other New World favorites.

"I would have had to start my education all over again," he says.

But golf is the same the whole world over, and Harry Young is well qualified to compile the new column.

He is a charter member of the British Golf Writers' Association, of which Bernard Darwin is president, and from 1930 until the war he covered most of the British championships and leading tournaments.

A regular player himself, Harry plays off a handicap of 13 at the Victoria Golf Club.

Magistrate Halts Two-Year Pursuit

Brunette Chases Bachelor Right into Court

NEW YORK (UP)—A 28-year-old bachelor went to court yesterday to complain that an office secretary has been chasing him for two years. He said her attentions were unwanted.

James Clancy, an accountant, said he got more than he had counted on when he went to the Sembodja Corp., an import-export firm, two years ago to go over their books.

He said Rose Mauro, 22, a secretary at the firm, watched him at work and has been in hot pursuit ever since.

Miss Mauro has telephoned him, followed his car in her own, waved her hand at him, leaned out of the car and called to him, and accosted him on the street, he said.

Clancy said he put up a "determined resistance" to all these advances. He was engaged to another girl, he said, and fortunately she believed his explanation for Miss Mauro's conduct.

When Clancy finished telling his story to Magistrate Thomas J. Gray, Miss Mauro was called to testify.

Gray asked her what she had to say about the charge.

"It won't happen again," she said.

Gray said that was a "negative admission" of guilt and dismissed the court.

Clancy sprinted from the courtroom, but comely brunette Miss Mauro was in no hurry to leave. She said as far as she was concerned the whole thing was over.

Newsmen who raced after Clancy asked him to what he attributed Miss Mauro's persistent interest in him.

"I have no idea," he gasped, and fled.
